Ohio Assembly Halts Education Bill Hearings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — There will be no more hearings on the administration's omnibus education bill until the Republican leadership in the Ohio House says yes or no to a proposed mandatory county income tax.

The chairman of the House Education Committee, Rep. Mark C. Schinnerer, R-49 Lakewood, told the committee Tuesday night he was re-referring it to subcommittee "until we know how much money is available."

Schinnerer said there would be minor changes in the substitute bill which the subcommittee reported out Tuesday night.

The substitute bill contains some major changes from the original bill.

County councils of education that would have replaced county boards of education were deleted from the original bill, but there were no changes made in the section to establish 12 to 15 regional service centers.

The centers would provide transportation data processing, computer and purchasing services for all schools in their designated regions. School districts wanting to contract for special education services could do so.

Although the substitute bill retains the concept of supplementary education service aid to non public schools, it stipulated that contracts for supplementary services shall be between school districts and lay teachers only.

It also provides that districts may use funds for these contracts, removing the requirement in the original bill that they would be required to provide the funds.

The substitute bill made no changes in sections requiring a substantial emphasis on vocational education and providing subsidies for medical students at Case Western Reserve University Medical College.

John H. Hall, the Ohio Education Association's expert on school legislation urged the adoption of a statewide mandatory county income tax to provide money for education.

Bills to do this are now being considered by a House Ways and Means subcommittee. Hall suggested that changes be made in the action setting up regional service centers. He said there should be more than 12 and that they should provide more services.

PARIS (AP) — The United States said today a basis now exists "for productive discussions of the key issues" at the Vietnam peace talks. But North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front renewed their attack on parts of President Nixon's eight-point plan.

The 18th full-scale session of the talks produced no movement on the controversial issues of troop withdrawals and a political settlement — the questions that have overshadowed the discussions from the beginning.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge acknowledged that these were areas of disagreement along with international supervision of troop withdrawals. He urged that efforts must be begun at once to find a solution to these problems, while detailed discussions proceeded on other questions.

Noting the Viet Cong's 10-point peace plan, Lodge said both sides "seem to be taking a common approach" on the reunification of Vietnam, restoration of the demilitarized zone and respect for that provisional military demarcation line and prisoners of war.

Big Upsurge In Viet Losses Seen

SAIGON (AP) — An upsurge in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attacks last week pushed past the half-million mark the total of enemy troops reported killed since the United States entered the Vietnam war. But American battlefield deaths were more than double the total for the week before.

The U.S. Command said today allied forces killed 5,686 enemy troops last week, an 84 per cent increase over the total of 3,095 reported killed two weeks ago.

The command said 430 Americans were killed and 2,185 wounded last week, the second highest toll this year and the highest since the week ending March 1. Then 453 U.S. troops were reported killed in action and 2,593 wounded at the height of the Viet Cong's spring offensive.

The week before last, American casualties were 184 killed and 1,225 wounded.

South Vietnamese casualties last week were 527 troops killed, the highest toll in more than a year, and 1,643 wounded. Two weeks ago, the South Vietnamese forces reported 182 men killed and 752 wounded.

The 5,686 enemy troops claimed killed last week raised to 500,509 the number of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers reported killed by allied forces since Jan. 1, 1961 when the United States entered the war. Like the American casualties last week, the enemy toll was the heaviest reported since the week ending March 1. Then 6,813 enemy soldiers were reported killed.

U.S. battlefield deaths reported since Jan. 1, 1961, now total 35,265, including 12,314 killed since preliminary peace talks opened in Paris on May 13, 1968. Since Dec. 7 when the talks were expanded to include the Viet Cong and the Saigon government, 5,208 Americans have been killed in action.

A total of 225,710 U.S. troops have been reported wounded in action since Jan. 1, 1961.

A communique from South Vietnamese headquarters conceded that together with the increase in enemy attacks allied forces also intensified their offensive operations. It said:

"The Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN) and allied forces also increased their offensive operations throughout the republic. Offensive efforts were stepped up along the border areas to block enemy infiltration of troops and equipment. During the week, ARVN forces conducted 203 offensive operations of battalion size or larger throughout the country of which 101 had contacts with the enemy."

The weekly U.S. summary showed at least 10 American operations of battalion size or larger under way last week. Hundreds of smaller American patrols are made each day.

Nixon Choice Gains Support Of Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has selected his kind of "law and order" judge, Warren E. Burger, to succeed Earl Warren and serve as the 15th chief justice of the United States.

The gray-haired, 61-year-old midwesterner, a veteran of 13 years on the U.S. Circuit Court here, is known as a strict constructionist who has criticized "appellate nit-picking."

Senators, particularly conservatives, hailed Burger's selection. If confirmation is as swift and easy as appears likely, Burger will step in next term for Warren, who is retiring at 78 after piloting the Supreme Court through its most active and liberal period.

The choice was a relatively obscure one, though Burger has a solid reputation in legal circles. His immediate predecessors, Warren, Fred M. Vinson, Harlan F. Stone and Charles Evans Hughes, all had national reputations when they were picked to be chief justice.

Nixon announced the nomination to the country from the White House Wednesday night. He said it was the most important one a President can make.

While campaigning for the presidency, Nixon said court decisions were "seriously hamstringing the peace forces in our society and strengthening the criminal forces."

The White House, in a statement, said Burger's philosophy was reflected in a commencement speech he made two years ago at Ripon College. It began:

"Governments exist chiefly to foster the rights and interests of its citizens — to protect their homes and property, their persons and their lives."

Burger called his selection "a tribute to all the federal and state judges of the nation who day in and day out perform the difficult task of the administration of justice."

His wife, Evera, kissed him on the cheek, and together they went to the Yellow Oval Room with the President, Mrs. Nixon and some guests for a brief celebration.

Warren, meanwhile, issued a statement congratulating Burger, wishing him success and happiness and declaring: "I will be glad to do anything I can to facilitate his taking over the duties of the office at the end of our term."

That will be sometime next month.

Burger, whose distinguished good looks fit anyone's idea of a judge, is a native of St. Paul, Minn., a graduate of the University of Minnesota and the St. Paul College of Law. He worked his way through school and practiced law for 21 years before going on the bench.

Burger served in the Eisenhower administration from 1953 to 1956 as head of the Justice Department's civil division. To him fell the task of pressing for court approval of the dismissal of John Peters, a part-time medical consultant, as a security risk.

In an unusual step, Simon E. Sobeloff, the Solicitor General, had declined, Burger stepped in for him, and earned the gratitude of high Eisenhower officials. (Continued on Page 2)

Egypt Claims Israeli Jet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egypt claimed six Israeli Mirage jets attempted to fly into Egyptian airspace about 300 miles southeast of Cairo today and one was shot down and the others were driven off.

A Cairo military communique said the French-built Mirages were met by a flight of Egyptian jets over Hurgada on the Red Sea.

The communique said: "All our planes returned safely to their bases."

There was no immediate report from Israel on any new air action between the Israelis and Egyptians.

The Israelis claimed they downed three Egyptian MIG21s, Soviet-built jets, in action at two points over the Suez Canal Wednesday. The Egyptians denied this.

Apollo Crew Set To Make Descent Just Above Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Two Apollo 10 astronauts transferred into a fragile lunar landing craft today and prepared to make man's closest approach to the moon's surface, a daring descent to within 50,000 feet of the Sea of Tranquility.

Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan crawled through a three-foot tunnel into the spidery lunar module, or LEM, in mid-morning and began checking the craft's complex systems.

They leave Navy Cmdr. John Young alone in the command vessel at 4:05 p.m. EDT to swoop down toward a landscape which they described Wednesday in terms such as "rugged planet," "fantastic," and "out of this world."

In the most perilous moments of the mission, they twice are to skim at nine times the speed of sound just 9.3 miles over a landing site they are scouting for a July landing by two Apollo 11 astronauts.

The two spaceships were to be apart more than eight hours, with Young continuing to circle the moon at an altitude of 69 miles, ready to fly a rescue mission if Stafford and Cernan encounter trouble.

During the two flights over the landing site, the LEM pilots hope to obtain a total of 13 minutes of radar ranging, photographs and visual observations. Then they are to execute a series of tricky maneuvers to rejoin Young in the command ship, duplicating moves the Apollo 11 landers must make after they blast off the moon.

The lineup must be made if Stafford and Cernan are to get home. LEM, a little bug-like ship was designed to operate in airless space and on the moon

Report Blalberg Suffers Setback

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Groote Schuur Hospital issued an extremely guarded report today on the condition of Dr. Philip Blalberg, the world's longest surviving heart transplant patient.

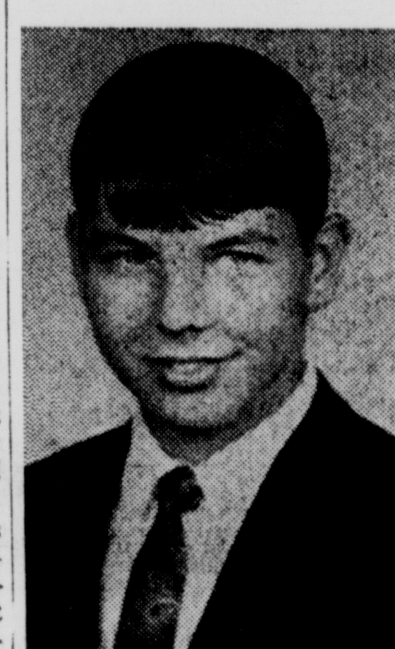

"The condition of Dr. Blalberg varies from day to day, but with intensive care his condition is under control," the hospital announced.

Blalberg, who will be 60 Saturday, was rushed to the hospital on a stretcher last Friday, the cause of his setback has not been announced.

Kidney Patient Steve Knece Dies Today

STEVE KNECE

Stephen Knece, 19-year-old kidney transplant patient, died 9:30 a.m. today in University Hospital, Columbus where he had recently undergone major surgery.

The ex-Logan Elm football player, son of Mrs. Helen Knece, Route 1, Kingston, received an artificial kidney on November 5, 1968.

On November 11, 1968 a Stephen Knece Fund was created through The Herald to help the widowed mother meet some of the high medical expenses incurred by the transplant and necessary follow-up procedures for the patient.

The community-wide drive netted $10,000 which was turned over to Roy Huffer, then prosecutor-elect for Pickaway County, who volunteered his services to coordinate and manage the public fund.

FUNERAL arrangements for Stephen will be completed by Mader Funeral Home.

The family has requested that memorial donations may be made to the Stephen Knece Fund, in care of Roy Huffer.

Suicide And Double Murder Reported

CLEVELAND Ohio (AP) — The coroner has ruled the deaths of Mrs. Peter Insana and her two children, Larry, 6, and Denise, 3, a suicide and double murder.

Dr. Samuel R. Gerber made the ruling Wednesday. Mrs. Insana and her children died in a fire at their Highland Heights home last Saturday. Analysis of debris and the presence of a gasoline can supplied evidence for the ruling.

Little Opposition To Extended Area Service Voiced

Increased telephone service between Circleville and Ashville was discussed at a public hearing held by the Ohio Public Utilities' Commission in Circleville Thursday morning.

Joseph Sharp, division manager of General Telephone, testified before the commission investigator and the 68 local people present concerning the new service.

Sharp stated that the new service would provide toll-free direct calls between Circleville and Ashville customers.

The increased rate for Circleville customers on a four-party line would be about 15 cents per month. Ashville customers on a similar line would be charged an additional 65 cents per month.

THE division director explained that General Telephone company had completed a recent investigation of the number of telephone calls made between the two towns in the past year.

Ashville customers make 4.29 calls per month to Circleville. Telephone users in Circleville made an average of one call per month to Ashville, according to Sharp.

An opinion poll of Ashville residents and business people revealed that 87.6 per cent of the Ashville people favored the new service and increased charges.

About 79.3 per cent of the Circleville customers contacted favored the service, Sharp stated.

The samplings were made up of 170 of the 1500 customers in Ashville and 574 of the 4,384 customers in Circleville.

Sharp stated that General Telephone Company would be ready to implement the new service within 60 days of its approval by the Ohio Utilities Commission.

DURING the 90 minutes open meeting about 19 people spoke in favor of the new service and increased rates and one person spoke against the increased rates.

James Locke, Circleville, was the only person to oppose the increased rates during the public hearing. Locke stated that he liked the idea of the (Continued on Page 2)

South Koreans Oppose Cutbacks

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — South Korea expressed opposition today to any withdrawal of U.S. or other allied troops from South Vietnam unless there is a corresponding withdrawal by North Vietnam.

South Korean Foreign Minister Kyu Han Choi, whose country has 50,000 troops in Vietnam, told Secretary of State William P. Rogers and five other foreign ministers from nations with troops in Vietnam that they must follow a very firm, coordinated line if they are to get peace.

Rogers and the foreign ministers are holding a special two-day meeting to review the war and the Paris peace talks. They met today following the two-day meeting of the council of ministers of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO).

Solons Urge Hunger Fight

Talmadge, Montoya
Put Forward Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., urged the Senate today to expand and liberalize the food stamp program to fight hunger and malnutrition in the nation.

"We cannot justify paying farmers huge sums for not producing and at the same time, ignore the cries of hungry children," said Talmadge—himself a gentleman farmer—as the Senate Agriculture Committee launched hearings on a variety of food stamp bills.

Talmadge's bill to give free stamps to all families with incomes under $40 monthly goes further than Nixon's proposal to include families with incomes under $30.

But the total Talmadge plan would raise the program limit from $340 million to $525 million while Nixon has suggested a $615-million program.

Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., called for minimum federal eligibility standards and federal authority to operate food stamp programs in counties where local or state officials refuse to do so.

Montoya is a co-sponsor of Sen. George S. McGovern's bill to add $1.5 billion to the program and make free stamps available to families with monthly incomes less than $80.

"We must insure if state and/or local officials either cannot or do not institute a food stamp program, that the needy of those communities shall not be denied the opportunity of participating in the program," Montoya told the committee.

School Strike Takes Effect In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A teacher strike threat kept some 600,000 public school pupils home from classes today as negotiators for the Chicago Teachers Union and the Board of Education sought a settlement of their contract dispute.

Talks with Mayor Richard J. Daley Wednesday broke off shortly after midnight with both sides saying some major progress had been made in the 14 hours of separate meetings.

A strike scheduled for 6 a.m. would be the first for the public school system. The union ordered picket lines at up at the city's 523 schools.

School Supt. James F. Redmond ordered all schools closed today and Friday, but urged teachers to report to work so he could assess how many schools could be reopened Monday.

Daley said both parties would meet separately later today to clarify several points, then reconvene for meetings in the mayor's office.

None of the officials would specify the issues that remained to be settled.

The Erie County Sheriff's Department said William Kimble was missing after the small boat capsized.

Frustration May Bring Kremlin Changes

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
The Kremlin is about to experience more frustration in its international Communist policy.

This, along with other exasperating dilemmas, is causing speculation in the diplomatic world about the staying power of the current Soviet leaders, Leonid I. Brezhnev, chief of the Soviet party, and Premier Alexei Kosygin share the top power with a "collective leadership."

Brezhnev's headaches are caused by the impact of Red China's heresies, by the backlash from Soviet suppression of the Czechoslovak reform movement, and by erosion of the Kremlin's authority over Communist parties abroad. These troubles will be complicated by the international Communist meeting opening in Moscow June 5. A final "preparatory" conference for that assembly is now in progress in Budapest.

Kosygin's woes apparently come from the old conflict between those who want to expand heavy industry and its potential for war—they are called "metal eaters"—and the pressure for more and better consumer goods services and housing.

Between the lines of what Moscow publishes one can detect a number of tough debates over internal and external policies.

At home, these center about such matters as how to keep the Soviet public sealed off from foreign influence, how to deal with dissidence, whether a reversion to some aspects of Stalinism is needed to insure the party's dictatorial authority and whether the military should have carte blanche at the expense of the consumers or whether more should be invested in the consumer side.

On the foreign front, Soviet goals sometime seem contradictory. There appears to be an urge to keep avenues to the United States open, while at the same time a need to picture the United States as an "imperialist" enemy whose threat requires constant vigilance and build-up of power.

There is the problem of how to get balking satellites back into line and keep them there. The prime example is Romania, which continues to question Soviet dictation.

The disarray of the Communist world must rank high among the causes of unhappiness in high places in Moscow. When the international conference is convened, only about 60 of the world's 99 Communist parties will be represented. Of those attending, some will have strong reservations about Soviet policy. Some will be in outright opposition to certain aspects of it. Red China and perhaps five others of the world's 14 ruling parties will be absent.

The Soviet press is testy as it discussed the movement's problems. The situation is awkward, because Moscow is preparing to (Continued on Page 2)

Increased telephone service between Circleville and Ashville was discussed at a public hearing held by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission in Circleville Thursday morning.

Solons Urge Hunger Fight

Talmadge, Montoya Put Forward Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., urged the Senate today to expand and liberalize the food stamp program to fight hunger and malnutrition in the nation.

"We cannot justify paying farmers huge sums for not producing and at the same time, ignore the cries of hungry children," said Talmadge—himself a gentleman farmer—as the Senate Agriculture Committee launched hearings on a variety of food stamp bills.

Talmadge's bill to give free stamps to all families with incomes under $40 monthly goes further than Nixon's proposal to include families with incomes under $30.

But the total Talmadge plan would raise the program limit from $340 million to $525 million while Nixon has suggested a $615-million program.

Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., called for minimum federal eligibility standards and federal authority to operate food stamp programs in counties where local or state officials refuse to do so.

Montoya is a co-sponsor of Sen. George S. McGovern's bill to add $1.5 billion to the program and make free stamps available to families with monthly incomes less than $80.

"We must insure if state and—or local officials either cannot or do not institute a food stamp program, that the needy of those communities shall not be denied the opportunity of participating in the program," Montoya told the committee.

School Strike Takes Effect In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A teacher strike threat kept some 600,000 public school pupils home from classes today as negotiators for the Chicago Teachers Union and the Board of Education sought a settlement of their contract dispute.

Talks with Mayor Richard J. Daley Wednesday broke off shortly after midnight with both sides saying some major progress had been made in the 14 hours of separate meetings.

A strike scheduled for 8 a.m. would be the first for the public school system. The union ordered picket lines at up at the city's 523 schools.

School Supt. James F. Redmond ordered all schools closed today and Friday, but urged teachers to report to work so he could assess how many schools could be reopened Monday.

Daley said both parties would meet separately later today to clarify several points, then reconvene for meetings in the mayor's office.

None of the officials would specify the issues that remained to be settled.

Frustration May Bring Kremlin Changes

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

The Kremlin is about to experience more frustration in its international Communist policy. This, along with other exasperating dilemmas, is causing speculation in the diplomatic world about the staying power of the current Soviet leaders, Leonid I. Brezhnev, chief of the Soviet party, and Premier Alexei Kosygin share the top power with a "collective leadership."

Brezhnev's headaches are caused by the impact of Red China's heresies, by the backlash from Soviet suppression of the Czechoslovak reform movement, and by erosion of the Kremlin's authority over Communist parties abroad. These troubles will be complicated by the international Communist meeting opening in Moscow June 5. A final "preparatory" conference for that assembly is now in progress in Budapest.

Kosygin's woes apparently come from the old conflict between those who want to expand heavy industry and its potential for war—they are called "metal eaters"—and the pressure for more and better consumer goods services and housing.

Between the lines of what Moscow publishes one can detect a number of tough debates over internal and external policies.

At home, these center about such matters as how to keep the Soviet public sealed off from foreign influence, how to deal with dissidence, whether a reversion to some aspects of Stalinism is needed to insure the party's dictatorial authority and whether the military should have carte blanche at the expense of the consumers or whether more should be invested in the consumer side.

On the foreign front, Soviet goals sometime seem contradictory. There appears to be an urge to keep avenues to the United States open, while at the same time a need to picture the United States as an "imperialist" enemy whose threat requires constant vigilance and build-up of power.

There is the problem of how to get bumpy satellites back into line and keep them there. The prime example is Romania, which continues to question Soviet dictation.

The disarray of the Communist world must rank high among the causes of unhappiness in high places in Moscow. When the international conference is convened, only about 60 of the world's 99 Communist parties will be represented. Of those attending, some will have strong reservations about Soviet policy. Some will be in outright opposition to certain aspects of it. Red China and perhaps five others of the world's 14 ruling parties will be absent.

The Soviet press is testy as it discussed the movement's problems. The situation is awkward, because Moscow is preparing to

No Smoking And Walk, Walk Formula For Good Health?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — No smoking, and walk, walk, walk.

That's heart specialist Paul Dudley White's formula for cutting down chances of a heart attack.

Dr. White, one-time physician to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was in Cleveland Wednesday to address the first meeting of the new Coronary Club, Inc.

The club was created to provide a forum for leading heart experts and to gather and disseminate material on the care of heart attack victims. Membership is limited to those who have either suffered a heart attack or have had close association with this condition.

White, who will be 83 next month, said in an interview he participated in a four-mile hike only a few days ago with about 400 people in Santa Barbara, Calif.

"Those people were walking scared — scared of having a heart attack," he said.

The two principal rules for people to follow to best help keep them from heart troubles are "Don't smoke and don't get too fat. If you do smoke, quit and if you don't exercise, start," White advised.

He suggested walking, tennis, and golf without an electric cart as some better ways to keep fit and stressed that even the greater majority of heart attack sufferers should get regular exercise.

Dr. White said he would much rather climb stairs than take an elevator but warned that someone who has not exercised in 20 years should not go into a heavy crash physical fitness program.

"It is safer to walk, not even jog, just walk," he added.

White called the new Coronary Club a "useful and important medium" that should help clear up much of the misinformation that many people have about heart attacks.

The club hopes to help dispel fear and loneliness in heart patients by making available to doctors, patients and their families information to help the victims regain their productivity.

Frustration . . .

As the Communist conference gathers, Mao Tse-tung's supporters, jeering from the sidelines are likely to do all they can to compound its troubles. The Russians seem to suspect a new Chinese border thrust might be timed to embarrass them during the conference.

At the conference itself, Moscow has little support for its original plan: to produce some sort of rebuke of the Chinese. Now it will have the added difficulty of justifying the Czechoslovak episode and the Moscow doctrine of "limited sovereignty" to Communists from abroad whose fortunes are damaged by such Soviet policies.

Even more trouble is in prospect. A recent issue of Kommunist, the Soviet party's top theoretical journal, reported:

"There is no doubt that the Chinese leaders intend to hold a 'conference' as soon as possible at which they could suggest proclamation of a Maoist International." Some sources expect this to happen next fall on the 20th anniversary of Communist victory in China. By thus asserting Peking claims to leadership over the true Leninist faith, the Chinese would make the party split final.

Kosygin's home-front troubles are suggested by another Communist article which noted that building the "material-technical base" for communism remains top priority. This suggests that the military brass is showing considerable political muscle in laying claim to a huge slice of the national wealth for its continuing buildup. Kosygin is identified with those who hope to invest more on the consumer side.

Navy Openings Filling Rapidly, Recruiter Says

With the month of May nearly gone, the availability of unrestricted openings in the U.S. Navy becomes more critical according to Commander Jack Rodda, skipper of central and southern Ohio recruiting.

"I see our delay program for June and later filling rapidly," he elaborated. "This means that we will not have the unrestricted openings we do this month." The Navy will now accept practically any young man with Navy motivation who passes the physical and has reached his 17th birthday. The Navy wants all young men to complete their high school, but will accept those who have been unable to do so and actually assist them in getting their diplomas while learning one of many Navy skills. Most high school graduates can go directly from boot camp into one of the Navy schools which not only prepares them for Navy occupations, but provides them with a useful skill for the years that follow after their enlistment.

Commander Rodda further stated, "Our job in recruitment is to leave no young man who is eligible without this important information about our unprecedented May openings. As a Navy career man, I would be remiss if I did not use every means available to tell every young man in Ohio who has a Navy interest about these opportunities."

Interested young men between 17 and 31 should contact the Navy recruiter, Chief Dick Kendig or Gerald Keene at the Lancaster Post Office on the second floor, for further information. During May, the office hours are from 9 until 6 weekdays and from 9 until 5 Saturdays. If the hours do not fit your schedule call 653-9445 for an evening appointment.

The Navy recruiter is at the Circleville Post Office Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Berkeley - To - Greensboro Campus Outbreaks Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Snipers and police exchanged sporadic gunfire at North Carolina AT University Wednesday night and early today. A student was found shot to death in a dormitory, with a wound in the back of the head.

A coroner said the student was shot with a small caliber firearm.

Police Col. Walter A. Burch, in charge of the police line around the 4,000-student campus at Greensboro, said his men fired only when fired upon and did not go on the campus.

Meanwhile, demonstrators in Berkeley, Calif., continued their cat-and-mouse tactics against gas-dispensing police and National Guardsmen, while students at City College in New York got some good news—no failing grades will be issued this term.

In Greensboro, National Guardsmen and armored personnel carriers remained near the campus, which quieted down about 2:30 a.m. after four hours of sniping, police said.

The outbreak at the predominantly Negro school followed signing of a restraining order late Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Walter Gambill who forbade Vincent McCullough, the student body president, from entering nearby Dudley High School.

Dudley has been hit by recent demonstrations and absenteeism among black students, to protest what they say was the unfair disqualification of a black candidate for student president at the school.

Earlier Wednesday, police used tear gas to disperse a crowd of high school students. Police said they had vandalized a schoolroom.

About 2,000 Berkeley protesters were scattered by a dispersal gas Wednesday, after a campus march to press demands for reopening a "people's park" on a lot owned by the University of California.

A riot followed the closing of the park last Thursday. Police fired shotguns during the disorders and a 25-year-old man was mortally wounded. A police helicopter used tear gas to disperse crowds Tuesday.

Wednesday's protest was less violent and crowds of demonstrators avoided pitched battles and blocked traffic intersections to draw troops from the campus. Police arrested more than 40 persons, bringing the six-day total to more than 250.

Gov. Ronald Reagan angrily refused to remove guardsmen, and shouted "Liar!" at a professor who accused him of making a political speech and trying to fire campus chancellors who disagreed with him.

About 350 Berkeley professors voted Wednesday night for a boycott of classes as long as guardsmen and police remain on campus.

Laird Claims Reds Step Up Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird charged North Vietnam today with stepping up the pace of the Vietnam war at the same time it was putting forth peace proposals.

"It is clear that while the enemy has been talking peace, he has during recent weeks been stepping up his offensive military operations," Laird said at a Pentagon luncheon.

The defense chief said 430 Americans were killed in combat last week, more than double the total for the previous week. He said this reflects increased enemy military activity.

The enemy pace has been quickened despite President Nixon's "new initiative for peace," Laird said, referring obliquely to the possibility that North Vietnamese may reject U.S. proposals.

"As a defense planner, I must be prepared for the possibility that negotiations in Paris will remain stalled and that the enemy may not respond to the President's proposals for peace in Vietnam—the highest priority of this administration," Laird said.

Laird outlined recent enemy activities in Vietnam for a group of about 70 businessmen, educators and other civilians attending a Pentagon orientation conference.

No Smoking And Walk, Walk Formula For Good Health?

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — No smoking, and walk, walk, walk.

people to follow to best help keep them from heart troubles are "Don't smoke and don't get too fat. If you do smoke, quit and if you don't exercise, start," White advised.

He suggested walking, tennis, and golf without an electric cart as some better ways to keep fit and stressed that even the great majority of heart attack sufferers should get regular exercise.

Dr. White said he would much rather climb stairs than take an elevator but warned that someone who has not exercised in 20 years should not go into a heavy crash physical fitness program.

"It is safer to walk, not even jog, just walk," he added.

White called the new Coronary Club a "useful and important medium" that should help clear up much of the misinformation that many people have about heart attacks.

The club hopes to help dispel fear and loneliness in heart patients by making available to doctors, patients and their families information to help the victims regain their productivity.

Frustration . . . Berkeley - To - Greensboro Campus Outbreaks Continue celebrate the 100th anniversary of Lenin's birth. The Kremlin is in a hurry. It has less than a year to deal with these problems.

As the Communist conference gathers, Mao Tse-tung's supporters, jeering from the sidelines are likely to do all they can to compound its troubles.

The Russians seem to suspect a new Chinese border thrust might be timed to embarrass them during the conference.

At the conference itself, Moscow has little support for its original plan: to produce some sort of rebuke of the Chinese. Now it will have the added difficulty of justifying the Czechoslovak episode and the Moscow doctrine of "limited sovereignty" to Communists abroad whose fortunes are damaged by such Soviet policies.

Even more trouble is in prospect. A recent issue of Communist, the Soviet party's top theoretical journal, reported, "There is no doubt that the Chinese leaders intend to hold a 'conference' as soon as possible at which they could suggest proclamation of a Maoist International." Some sources expect this to happen next fall on the 20th anniversary of Communist victory in China. By thus asserting Peking claims to leadership over the true Leninist faith, the Chinese would make the party split final.

Kosygin's home-front troubles are suggested by another Communist article which noted that building the "material-technical base" for communism remains top priority. This suggests that the military brass is showing considerable political muscle in laying claim to a huge slice of the national wealth for its continuing buildup. Kosygin is identified with those who hope to invest more on the consumer side.

Navy Openings
Filling Rapidly, Recruiter Says

With the month of May nearly gone, the availability of unrestricted openings in the U.S. Navy becomes more critical according to Commander Jack Rodda, skipper of central and southern Ohio recruiting.

"I see our delay program for June and later filling rapidly," he elaborated. "This means that we will not have the unrestricted openings we do this month."

The Navy will now accept practically any young man with Navy motivation who passes the physical and has reached his 17th birthday. The Navy wants all young men to complete their high school, but will accept those who have been unable to do so and actually assist them in getting their diplomas while learning one of many Navy skills. Most high school graduates can go directly from boot camp into one of the Navy schools which not only prepares them for Navy occupations, but provides them with a useful skill for the years that follow their enlistment.

Commander Rodda further stated, "Our job in recruitment is to leave no young man who is eligible without this important information about our unprecedented May openings. As a Navy career man, I would be remiss if I did not use every means available to tell every young man in Ohio who has a Navy interest about these opportunities."

Interested young men between 17 and 31 should contact the Navy recruiter, Chief Dick Kendig or Gerald Keene at the Lancaster Post Office on the second floor, for further information. During May, the office hours are from 9 until 6 weekdays and from 9 until 5 Saturdays. If the hours do not fit your schedule call 653-9445 for an evening appointment.

The Navy recruiter is at the Circleville Post Office Thursdays, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Snipers and police exchanged sporadic gunfire at North Carolina AT University Wednesday night and early today. A student was found shot to death in a dormitory, with a wound in the back of the head.

A coroner said the student was shot with a small caliber firearm.

Police Col. Walter A. Burch, in charge of the police line around the 4,000-student campus at Greensboro, said his men fired only when fired upon and did not go on the campus.

Meanwhile, demonstrators in Berkeley, Calif., continued their cat-and-mouse tactics against gas-dispensing police and National Guardsmen, while students at City College in New York got some good news—no failing grades will be issued this term.

In Greensboro, National Guardsmen and armored personnel carriers remained near the campus, which quieted down about 2:30 a.m. after four hours of sniping, police said.

The outbreak at the predominantly Negro school followed a warning of a restraining order late Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Walter Gambill who forbade Vincent McCullough, the student body president, from entering nearby Dudley High School.

Dudley has been hit by recent demonstrations and absenteeism among black students, to protest what they say was the unfair disqualification of a black candidate for student president at the school.

used tear gas to disperse a crowd of high school students. Police said they had vandalized a schoolroom.

About 2,000 Berkeley protesters were scattered by a dispersal gas Wednesday, after a campus march to press demands for reopening a "people's park" on a lot owned by the University of California.

A riot followed the closing of the park last Thursday. Police fired shotguns during the disorders and a 25-year-old man was mortally wounded. A police helicopter used tear gas to disperse crowds Tuesday.

Wednesday's protest was less violent and crowds of demonstrators avoided pitched battles and blocked traffic intersections to draw troops from the campus. Police arrested more than 40 persons, bringing the six-day total to more than 250.

Gov. Ronald Reagan angrily refused to remove guardsmen, and shouted "Liar!" at a professor who accused him of making a political speech and trying to fire campus chancellors who disagreed with him.

About 350 Berkeley professors voted Wednesday night for a boycott of classes as long as guardsmen and police remain on campus.

Contestant In Yacht Race
Safe After His Boat Sinks

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — The favorite in the round-the-world yacht race lost his boat 12 days from the finish, but "the most important thing is that he is alive," his wife said today.

Mrs. Nigel Tetley was waiting in Plymouth for her 45-year-old husband. He was picked up from a rubber dinghy Wednesday night by a Liberian tanker near the Azores after his triple-hulled yacht sank.

A radio report from the 12,887-ton tanker Prospero said Tetley was in good shape when he was rescued 100 miles north of San Miguel Isle, in the Azores. The tanker is due in Trinidad in about a week, and it was not known if arrangements would be made to take Tetley off earlier.

Before abandoning his 41-foot Victress, Tetley sent a distress signal. A U.S. Air Force Hercules transport based in the Azores spotted him and gave his location to the tanker.

Tetley, a lieutenant commander who is soon to retire from the Royal Navy, left Plymouth last Sept. 16 and had spent 247 days alone at sea.

His bow was reported damaged some time ago, but he re-

Apollo Crew . . . Reds Step Up Vietnam War

For 29 minutes, they pointed the camera out the window and showed pictures of a bleak, barren landscape of crater-pocked plains, boulder-strewn plateau and rugged highlands.

In color, the desolate terrain took on a brownish hue. It looked like a most inhospitable place.

The touchdown target for Apollo 11, near the crater Moltke was in partial darkness but appeared relatively flat from the 69-mile altitude.

Although it is one of the smoothest stretches of moon-scape, the area still is scarred by craters ranging from the size of a dime to a football stadium.

It is an ellipse measuring four by nine miles. From a distance, the surface resembles the "dirty beach sand" description given by the Apollo 8 astronauts who circled the moon in December.

Nixon Choice

cials for arguing the controversial cause.

Burger's background suggests, but by no means assures, that the Court's broad expansion of the rights of criminal suspects and defendants could be slowed down.

Though the Warren Court has been predominantly liberal, the balance in criminal law cases has sometimes been delicate. For instance, it was a 5-4 decision in the 1966 Miranda case that assured people accused of crime the right to remain silent under police questioning and to have a lawyer's help.

This delicate balance could be tipped the other way if Burger takes an opposite position from Warren. At the same time Burger is considered a liberal on civil rights and an advocate of speedy trials, a long-time goal of most liberal jurists.

Stock List
Goes Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, with bargain hunting again reported giving it some of its buoyancy, continued higher today in fairly active trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.38 at 955.14.

Gains led losses by about 350 issues.

Brokers described the market's upward push as a continuation of the advance made Wednesday. They said investors were encouraged by the market's ability to work its way out of an early downturn and finish the day with a gain.

They said the bargain hunting which helped buoy the market Wednesday was continuing.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.4 at 339.8, with industrials up 3.0, rails up .8, and utilities off .2.

A 183.90 share block of Continental Oil traded at 37, off 1/2.

Northwest Industries was off 1 at 76 1/2. The Justice Department has filed suit seeking to prevent the acquisition of B. F. Goodrich Co. by Northwest. Goodrich was up 1 at 47.

Fourteen of the 20 most-active issues on the New York Stock Exchange were ahead, 5 were lower, and 1 was unchanged.

Nab AWOL Ohio Marine In Missouri

BROOKFIELD Mo. (AP) — A 19-year-old AWOL Marine from Ohio was arrested Wednesday along railroad tracks near here.

Highway patrolmen and a member of the Linn County Sheriff's office arrested Benny W. Laytard of Washington Court House, Ohio, and took him to the Brookfield City Jail to await the arrival of federal authorities.

The patrol said Laytard left his home last week in a stolen car with a 15-year-old girl, stole three more cars along the way to Missouri and took a fifth car in Macon, Mo.

The auto which belonged to Dale Woods of Clarence was recovered after it was abandoned by Laytard and the girl following a high-speed police chase Friday night.

The girl was captured later, but Laytard slipped away. The girl's father arrived Sunday and took his daughter back to Ohio.

The patrol said Laytard had been stationed at Camp Pendleton, California.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Three is a spate of books today telling us how to live to a ripe old age.

Some of them feature fad diets; others merely reiterate common sense advice which is as old as the ancient Greek longevity prescription: "Moderation in all things."

This rather reminds one of W.C. Fields' famous cure for insomnia: "Get plenty of sleep."

However, it takes more than a simple diet, exercise and eight hours of sleep nightly to insure you'll last long enough to collect on a pension from Uncle Sam.

You have to take the right kind of exercise. Just flailing a couple of dumbbells around and bending down and touching the floor a few times is hardly enough.

In this tense and restless world the best exercise you can take to insure survival is to grab your nose firmly with both hands and tug it away every time it feels a temptation to stick itself into somebody else's business. Caution is a prerequisite if you want to satisfy your ambition to become the first centenarian in your neighborhood.

Here, for example, are a few invitations which, if accepted, lead down that one-way path to disaster:

"All right, men I've explained the situation. Are there any volunteers?"

"No wonder the charcoal isn't catching. You're not using enough starting fluid. Why don't you just empty the whole can on the coals?"

"Those two chicks at the end of the bar look like they're pinning for a little action. Do you want to make a play for the tall one, and I'll cozy up to the short one?"

"If you're not sure of the road, let me take the wheel. I only had four or five drinks?"

"Of course, I could give you a written guarantee that there is no defect in the house, but don't you think my word of honor is enough?"

"We can snap it up now at a real bargain. If there is oil all around it, doesn't it stand to reason that there must be oil under it, too?"

"Race you to the raft—it can't be more than a 200-yard swim at the most."

"It's a specialty of my wife's. Here, pass your plate and let me give you some more."

"Let's join the riot. After all, you're one of the dean's pet students. He wouldn't kick you out of school."

"I'm having trouble again with my wife. Can you go home with me and help straighten it out? I'm sure she'll listen to you."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A VISITOR to a mid-town bar ordered a Manhattan. When it was placed before him, a sprig of parsley floated therein. "What's that THING in my Manhattan?" he demanded angrily. The quick-thinking waiter answered spryly, "That, sir, is Central Park."

In Washington, a congressman has revived the story of the Japanese admiral in World War II who assembled a group of dedicated kamikaze pilots and ordered them to attack a U.S. carrier. "I want you to plunge straight into the smokescreen of that carrier," he told them. "Any questions before you die the death of heroes?" "Just one," spoke up one of the intrepid pilots. "Yes?" hissed the irritated admiral. "Just this," inquired the pilot. "Are you out of your blank blank mind?"

QUICKIES: "Every tooth in my head is not only loose, but hurts me constantly," a patient complained to his dentist. The dentist—a punster named Kerr—inquired, "If I may denture to be so told..." "I'm in real trouble," a little man confessed to an analyst. "I can't rid myself of the conviction that I'm a dog." "Jimmy!" exclaimed the analyst. "How long has this been going on?" The little man answered, "Since I was a puppy."

Speaking Of Your Health

Two of our boys were circumcised shortly after they were born. A third was not because he seemed to be so frail and now, at the age of eight, is having difficulty with the skin over the tip of his penis. Is there any greater danger in having him circumcised at this time than there would have been had it been done shortly after birth?

Air Congestion Disguises

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

On June 1 the new Federal Aviation Administration quotas for handling the traffic congestion at five big airports (O'Hare in Chicago, National in Washington, Newark in New Jersey and Kennedy and La Guardia in New York) will go into effect on a seven-month trial basis. Since the flight permissions are an uneasy compromise between the demands of the big commercial airlines, the short-hop air taxi services and the corporations and private individuals who fly for business or pleasure, it is quite obvious that nobody will be really happy. Even so, with 1,500 additional traffic controllers at work, there is a possibility that the summer of 1969 won't witness a repetition of the terrible confusions and near-collisions of 1968.

And there's the rub: with the problem pushed off the front pages, the politicians who must ultimately validate some long-term plans for handling the jumbo transports and the even vaster traveling crowds of the future will tend to sit back and do nothing. As one dispirited air executive, John Tucker of Butler Aviation Company, puts it, "You have to have a good collision to get anyone to move."

There have been grandiose proposals for a "fourth jet port" in the New York area, for example, but the lines of authority are so scrambled between the states, the local communities and such interstitial bodies as the Port of New York Authority and the Metropolitan Airlines Committee that it is like getting a UN consensus on the invasion of Czechoslovakia to produce any forward activity here. The citizens of northern New Jersey don't want the wildlife of the Great Swamp area disturbed, the Port of New York Authority thinks a jet port in the pine barrens of central New Jersey would unduly favor the closer metropolitan region of Philadelphia, the inhabitants of Westchester County object to jet engine noise, the Grumman Aircraft Corporation, which owns the Calverton site seventy miles east of New York on Long Island, doesn't want to sell its property, and the proponents of better shore-front recreation facilities for the teeming urban millions object to seeing Kennedy Airport enlarged by filling in Jamaica Bay.

So all the particular local interests conspire against the general interest to halt any "fourth jet port" plan in its tracks.

The case can be made that New York City needs jet port expansion to pay for its own continued development. More than a half-billion dollars are spent in New York each year by air travelers, and the business planes which are the "flying offices" and "tools of management" of General Motors, IBM, General Mills and other great corporations help make Manhattan Island the center of industrial and banking decision that it is. To a lesser extent Chicago is dependent for its progress on the air traffic of O'Hare. But the new breed of urban politician couldn't care less about expanding the arteries of world travel. Hand some John Lindsay knows that transients don't vote. Herman Badillo, the Bronx Borough President who wants to be the Democratic nominee for Mayor of New York, thinks central city government should give way to increased neighborhood autonomy. Norman Mailer, the intellectuals' candidate for the New York City Hall (and don't sell him too short, for he knows how to circulate ideas), is another "up with the neighborhood" man; he wants New York to become the fifty-first state, which would add to our atomization and surely reduce the chances for a deal with New Jersey or Long Island's Suffolk County for expanding national traffic needs. When one's horizon is Brooklyn Heights, the South Bronx or East Greenwich Village, the world community can go hang.

Since the cards are stacked against any comprehensive consideration of future air travel pressures, the main hope is that a more intensive use can be made of airports such as Kennedy, La Guardia, and O'Hare. The most promising program goes under the rubric of STOL (which stands for Short Take-off and Landing). With planes that are built to take off on a thousand-foot airstrip instead of from the four thousand feet of clearance space needed by contemporary jets, Kennedy could utilize some of its wasted between-the-runways space to form an "airport within an airport." Unfortunately, one has to go to Canada or Europe to buy a vertical, or short, take-off plane. American builders aren't yet convinced that STOL planes are commercially feasible, which puts it up to Congress to provide development money.

The FFA June 1 palliative traffic regulations won't encourage Congress to do a thing about STOL, or about anything else connected with giving us an air travel pattern for the new day.

See Arson In UC Fire At Library

CINCINNATI (AP) — Firemen blamed arsonists for a minor fire Wednesday in the sub basement of the University of Cincinnati library. There were no injuries.

Librarians extinguished the blaze, confined to a stack of foreign newspapers, before firemen arrived. Damage was estimated at $100.

Elsewhere on campus, students went about their scheduled in normal fashion.

Militants attempted twice—and failed—to stir student to boycott classes but they faced silent groups of students who sopped briefly on their way to classes.

A Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Ralph Kohn issued a temporary restraining order late Tuesday, prohibiting any further demonstrations on the campus.

About 60 militants broke windows, damaged classroom furniture and injured four persons in a two-hour demonstration earlier Tuesday.

The city solicitor's office filed the petition on request of university officials who told the 21,000 full-time students the school would tolerate no further disturbances or class disruptions.

The demonstrations were stirred by the Students for a Democratic Society and the United Black Association after the latter organization filed a list of 18 demands with the university. The demands centered on a larger Negro faculty.

President Dr. Walter Langsam met with militant leaders late Tuesday and said he planned a meeting with them next Tuesday at 10 a. m.

To The Editor:

This is a thank you note; also it is an encouragement to parents of children who have speech and/or hearing problems.

It isn't always pleasant to have to attend clinics, especially when the session involves concentrated effort on physical or sensory improvement. By sensory improvement here I refer to the therapy sessions held at the clinic on Saturday morning at Mount Street School for persons with speech and hearing problems.

I give my thanks to the ladies of the Easter Seal Society who make a parent and child feel at ease at the clinic by offering hot coffee and cold drinks to the visitors. It's very relaxing.

The therapists from Ohio State University and their supervisors deserve much credit for their fine efforts to help the persons with speech and hearing problems. Miss Spotts, a very dedicated and friendly young lady, gave me some much-needed encouragement to go on trying to improve my "reading" spoken words when I cannot hear them. She also pointed out the abilities I acquired over the years to "read lips" some, and gave me confidence to accept my hearing loss and adjust to it.

My parents were not able to take me to a clinic for lip-reading therapy as a child, though it had been recommended to them. If your child, parents, has a recognizable speech or hearing problem and has been referred to the clinic, do your best to attend every scheduled session and be proud to help your child. Be thankful that the citizens of Pickaway County have this service available. It takes sacrifice, but every little improvement is worth your while.

Thanks again to all involved in the Speech and Hearing clinic, and to you citizens who contribute to the Easter Seal Campaign.

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP) — The body of Paula Moore, 11, Newark was recovered Tuesday afternoon from the Mohican River 20 miles northeast of here.

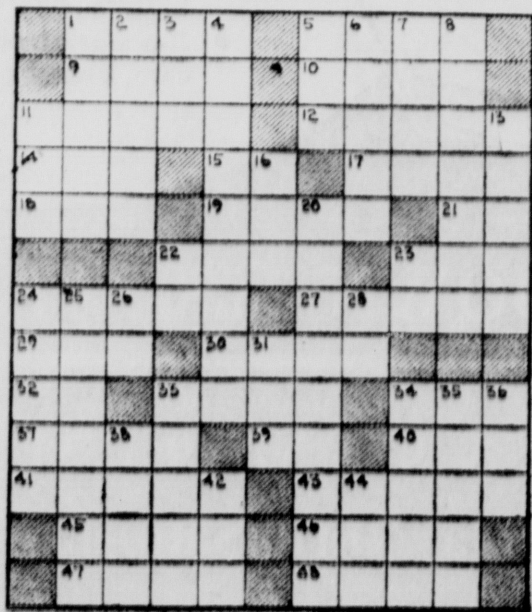

The girl was one of several Newark pupils standing on a foot bridge when it collapsed Monday night, plunging them into the rain-swollen river. Her body was sighted by two men in a broad truck about 350 feet down stream from the fallen bridge.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a spate of books today telling us how to live to a ripe old age. Some of them feature fad diets; others merely reiterate common sense advice which is as old as the ancient Greek longevity prescription: "Moderation in all things."

This rather reminds one of W.C. Fields' famous cure for insomnia: "Get plenty of sleep."

However, it takes more than a simple diet, exercise and eight hours of sleep nightly to insure you'll last long enough to collect on a pension from Uncle Sam.

You have to take the right kind of exercise. Just flailing a couple of dumbbells around and bending down and touching the floor a few times is hardly enough.

In this tense and restless world the best exercise you can take to insure survival is to grab your nose firmly with both hands and tug it away every time it feels a temptation to stick itself into somebody else's business. Caution is a prerequisite if you want to satisfy your ambition to become the first centenarian in your neighborhood.

Here, for example, are a few invitations which, if accepted, lead down that one-way path to disaster:

"All right, men I've explained the situation. Are there any volunteers?"

"No wonder the charcoal isn't catching. You're not using enough starting fluid. Why don't you just empty the whole can on the coals?"

"Those two chicks at the end of the bar look like they're pinning for a little action. Do you want to make a play for the tall one, and I'll cozy up to the short one?"

"If you're not sure of the road, let me take the wheel. I only had four or five drinks?"

"Of course, I could give you a written guarantee that there is no defect in the house, but don't you think my word of honor is enough?"

"We can snap it up now at a real bargain. If there is oil all around it, doesn't it stand to reason that there must be oil under it, too?"

"Race you to the raft—it can't be more than a 200-yard swim at the most."

"It's a specialty of my wife's. Here, pass your plate and let me give you some more."

"Let's join the riot. After all, you're one of the dean's pet students. He wouldn't kick you out of school."

"I'm having trouble again with my wife. Can you go home with me and help straighten it out? I'm sure she'll listen to you."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — American industry could be the next institution attacked with disruptive tactics similar to those that have brought turmoil to some of the nation's schools of higher learning.

This is the view of a high-ranking official of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, but it is documented in literature being distributed by the Students for a Democratic Society, sometimes called the core of the New Left.

"They intend to disrupt industry in the same way they have disrupted the academic community," says William C. Sullivan, assistant director of the FBI.

A study of SDS documents indicates that initial efforts in industry are in the nature of "work-ins," in which young revolutionaries obtain jobs, study worker attitudes and develop contacts among disgruntled workers with the idea of stirring unrest.

An immediate goal is to bring pressure on government and industry to cease supporting the war in Vietnam.

"Workers produce and move the goods that are used in the war, and it is they who are primarily forced to fight the war. They can stop it." This is the way the immediate goal is described in a work-in circular.

The ultimate goals, however, appear to be much larger. The circular describes the intention in this way:

"Our goal is not to organize the U.S. working class in one summer. We want to learn as much as we can, and to make friendships that will remain after summer with a few workers."

These friendships, the SDS hopes, will make it more possible to involve workers in organized political activity. "In this way the movement, through us, will gain some of the urgently needed ties to the workers of this country."

These goals appear modest beside the means suggested to bring them about. Instructional material abounds on the use of violence to gain ends.

Descriptions on how to make bombs and how to use ice picks, blackjacks, slingshots, ammonia pistols and other weapons are common in SDS literature. Sabotage is suggested through the use of sugar in gasoline tanks and arson. One SDS publication lists this as the long-range aim:

"Our concern is not only the improvement of wages and working conditions for our brothers and sisters in the shops, but for a transformation of all labor issues ... into a movement against the capitalist system itself."

One effect of the threat to the business community could be to make it become more involved in the social problems of the day, and to work in its own way

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A VISITOR to a mid-town bar ordered a Manhattan. When it was placed before him, a sprig of parsley floated therein. "What's that THING in my Manhattan?" he demanded angrily. The quick-thinking waiter answered spryly, "That, sir, is Central Park."

In Washington, a congressman has revived the story of the Japanese admiral in World War II who assembled a group of dedicated kamikaze pilots and ordered them to attack a U.S. carrier. "I want you to plunge straight into the smokestack of that carrier," he told them. "Any questions before you die the death of heroes?" "Just one," spoke up one of the intrepid pilots. "Yes?" hissed the irritated admiral. "Just this," inquired the pilot. "Are you out of your blank mind?"

QUICKIES: "Every tooth in my head is not only loose, but hurts me constantly," a patient complained to his dentist. The dentist—a punster named Kerr—inquired, "If I may denture to be so told..."

"I'm in real trouble," a little man confessed to an analyst. "I can't rid myself of the conviction that I'm a dog." "Jimmy!" exclaimed the analyst. "How long has this been going on?" The little man answered, "Since I was a puppy."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Two of our boys were circumcised shortly after they were born. A third was not because he seemed to be so frail and now, at the age of eight, is having difficulty with the skin over the tip of his penis. Is there any greater danger in having him circumcised at this time than there would have been had it been done shortly after birth?

Dear Mr. L. J.: Circumcision still represents to some people a ritualistic or religious procedure which has no scientific value. The confusion about this should be clarified so that some of the advantages of circumcision can be shown. One of the most astonishing and unexplained phenomena that has long been studied by anthropologists is circumcision in wilderness tribes that have no other tie to modern civilization. The aborigines in Australia and in parts of Africa have a ritualistic circumcision that is performed at the time of puberty. In fact, this crude ceremony is done on both boys and girls before they are admitted to the adult society of the tribes. It is astonishing that people who do not yet know about the wheel or creative implements should, in some odd way, find this procedure important.

In modern society, circumcision is frequently performed without relation to religious faith because of better cleanliness. Phimosis may be the condition you are describing in your eight year old boy. In the absence of circumcision, there sometimes occurs a tightness of the foreskin over the penis which can be distressing and painful. There certainly is not any great danger to circumcision at his age. It does mean a general anesthesia and a moderate amount of pain for a few days afterward.

It is of utmost importance that a child know all about any operation and that there be no falsehood attached to it. In this particular procedure, it is imperative that the child know every detail and reason for the operation and be completely prepared for the discomfort that may ensue. It is particularly imperative that a child's masculinity must not be threatened by any semblance of a lie. Children at this age can be made to understand the exact reason for the operation, what it will accomplish, and why it is beneficial. Only then, should this simple operation be performed. It then will be a contribution to his physical welfare and to his psyche.

Is there complete agreement that high cholesterol in the blood is dangerous to the heart and can cause narrowing of the arteries?

Dear Mr. C.: The scientific discussions about cholesterol are purely technical ones and should not invite your joining one team or another. From the layman's point of view, it is healthy, in many ways, if high fat diets are reduced and if cholesterol is kept within normal levels in the blood.

Air Congestion Disguises

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

On June 1 the new Federal Aviation Administration quotas for handling the traffic congestion at five big airports (O'Hare in Chicago, National in Washington, Newark in New Jersey and Kennedy and La Guardia in New York) will go into effect on a seven-months' trial basis. Since the flight permissions are an uneasy compromise between the demands of the big commercial airlines, the short-hop air taxi services and the corporations and private individuals who fly for business or pleasure, it is quite obvious that nobody will be really happy. Even so, with 1,500 additional traffic controllers at work, there is a possibility that the summer of 1969 won't witness a repetition of the terrible confusions and near-collisions of 1968.

And there's the rub: with the problem pushed off the front pages, the politicians who must ultimately validate some long-term plans for handling the jumbo transports and the even vaster traveling crowds of the future will tend to sit back and do nothing. As one disgruntled air executive, John Tucker of Butler Aviation Company, puts it, "You have to have a good collision to get anyone to move."

There have been grandiose proposals for a "fourth jet port" in the New York area, for example, but the lines of authority are so scrambled between the states, the local communities and such interstitial bodies as the Port of New York Authority and the Metropolitan Airlines Committee that it is like getting a UN consensus on the invasion of Czechoslovakia to produce any forward activity here. The citizens of northern New Jersey don't want the wildlife of the Great Swamp area disturbed, the Port of New York Authority thinks a jet port in the pine barrens of central New Jersey would unduly favor the closer metropolitan region of Philadelphia, the inhabitants of Westchester County object to jet engine noise, the Grumman Aircraft Corporation, which owns the Calverton site seventy miles east of New York on Long Island, doesn't want to sell its property, and the proponents of better shore-front recreation facilities for the teeming urban millions object to seeing Kennedy Airport enlarged by filling in Jamaica Bay.

So all the particular local interests conspire against the general interest to halt any "fourth jet port" plan in its tracks.

The case can be made that New York City needs jet port expansion to pay for its own continued development. More than a half-billion dollars are spent in New York each year by air travellers, and the business planes which are the "flying offices" and "tools of management" of General Motors, IBM, General Mills and other great corporations help make Manhattan Island the center of industrial and banking decision that it is. To a lesser extent Chicago is dependent for its progress on the air traffic of O'Hare. But the new breed of urban politician couldn't care less about expanding the arteries of world travel. Hand some John Lindsay knows that transients don't vote. Herman Badillo, the Bronx Borough President who wants to be the Democratic nominee for Mayor of New York, thinks central city government should give way to increased neighborhood autonomy. Norman Mailer, the intellectuals' candidate for the New York City Hall (and don't sell him too short, for he knows how to circulate ideas), is another "up with the neighborhood" man; he wants New York to become the fifty-first state, which would add to our atomization and surely reduce the chances for a deal with New Jersey or Long Island's Suffolk County for expanding national traffic needs. When one's horizon is Brooklyn Heights, the South Bronx or East Greenwich Village, the world community can go hang.

Since the cards are stacked against any comprehensive consideration of future air travel pressures, the main hope is that a more intensive use can be made of airports such as Kennedy, La Guardia, and O'Hare. The most promising program goes under the rubric of STOL (which stands for Short Takeoff and Landing). With planes that are built to take off on a thousand-foot airstrip instead of from the four thousand feet of clearance space needed by contemporary jets, Kennedy could utilize some of its wasted between-runways space to form an "airport within an airport." Unfortunately, one has to go to Canada or Europe to buy a vertical, or short-takeoff plane. American builders aren't yet convinced that STOL planes are commercially feasible, which puts it up to Congress to provide development money.

The FAA June 1 palliative traffic regulations won't encourage Congress to do a thing about STOL, or about anything else connected with giving us an air travel pattern for the new day.

See Arson In UC Fire At Library

CINCINNATI (AP) — Firemen blamed arsonists for a minor fire Wednesday in the sub basement of the University of Cincinnati library. There were no injuries.

Librarians extinguished the blaze, confined to a stack of foreign newspapers, before firemen arrived. Damage was estimated at $100.

Elsewhere on campus, students went about their schedules in normal fashion.

Militants attempted twice—and failed—to stir student to boycott classes but they faced silent groups of students who sipped briefly on their way to classes.

A Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge Ralph Kohlen issued a temporary restraining order late Tuesday, prohibiting any further demonstrations on the campus.

About 60 militants broke windows, damaged classroom furniture and injured four persons in a two-hour demonstration earlier Tuesday.

The city solicitor's office filed the petition on request of university officials who told the 21,000 full-time students the school would tolerate no further disturbances or class disruptions.

The demonstrations were stirred by the Students for a Democratic Society and the United Black Association after the latter organization filed a list of 18 demands with the university. The demands centered on a larger Negro faculty.

President Dr. Walter Langsam met with militant leaders late Tuesday and said he planned a meeting with them next Tuesday at 10 a. m.

MRS. BARBARA YOUNG, wife of Apollo 10 command module pilot John, has a variety of happy expressions as she talks to newsmen at her home in Seabrook, Tex.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Should He Know? — Maybe Not!

DEAR ABBY: How dare you advise a woman whose conscience is tormenting her because she cheated on her husband NOT to tell him?

If you don't know that the foundation of all good marriages is complete honesty, then you ought to confine your advice to teenagers.

You told that woman to confess to her God—to her clergyman—to a dear friend, but NOT to her husband. HE is the one she should confess to!

I hope you will reconsider and retract your advice to this poor woman. You gave her very bad advice.

ROGER L. DER ROGER: Sorry, but unless a woman is reasonably certain that hers is a mature, forgiving, and understanding man, she'd be better off keeping her bazoo shut.

DEAR ABBY: I'm with you! All "confessions" are NOT good. At age 55 I am still awakened—sometimes at 4 o'clock in the morning—to hear my husband cursing me because of a past intimacy with another man. This took place long before I even MET my husband, but I foolishly "confessed" all, and now he insists that I have sinned against HIM—when I didn't even know him.

I would give anything if I hadn't told him, but I did, and now it's too late.

I would advise women who have husbands like mine to try to tune him out. Don't listen, don't answer, and don't try to apologize or explain. Leave the room. Sleep on the couch if necessary. (I did, last night.) Consider it just another headache.

My husband is fine when he isn't harping on this one subject—which is like a sickness with him—and I comfort myself by reasoning that my love for him is greater than his love for me. I am not going to crack up, and I am not going to leave him. Statistics tell me that I'll be alone soon enough.

SORRY I TALKED DEAR ABBY: TO LONESOME AND BLUE" who is bitter toward her husband's company because who is unable to go on business trips with her husband. You are not alone. I have exactly the same situation.

My husband has been a traveling executive for 15 years. We've been married 18 years and have 3 children. I am 39, have kept up my appearance and figure, and keep up on current events. During the time my husband is away I spend as much time with the children as possible since they don't see much of their father. I don't accept evening social engagements alone, either.

My husband has an expense account which enables him to stay at the best hotels and eat at the finest restaurants. When he gets home, he is ready for a "home-cooked meal"; I am ready to go out. Guess who wins.

We are well off financially, but that doesn't help much. To top the whole thing off, my husband met a girl at the airport (she sold him his airline tickets). They lunched together and discovered they had so much in common because they were both so well-traveled. It developed into an adulterous affair, and we are now in the process of getting a divorce. So I, too, am

LONESOME AND BLUE DEAR ABBY: Please, please for goodness' sake, say something about the girls who wear mini skirts who shouldn't. I mean girls with legs and figures that are nothing to be proud of. I have all the sympathy in the world for fat girls, but why should people be forced to see so much of them? It seems the bigger the rear, the shorter the skirt.

HAD IT IN BINGHAMTON DEAR ABBY: I've said it.

Eight Juniors Prepare For Boys State

Eight high school juniors, representing the four Pickaway County Schools, will take part next month in the annual American Legion sponsored "Buckeye Boys' State," at Ohio University.

To acquaint the boys with what is in store for them on the OU campus, a special orientation program will be presented at American Legion Post 618 Williamsport, 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

During the program, the boys will see films of previous Boys States and an explanation will be made as to what they will do while attending the mythical state of their own, then they elect their own officials to run the government.

Attending from Pickaway County will be Ty Ankrom and Richard Walters of Circleville High School, Danny Fausnaugh of Logan Elm High School, Greg Bigham of Westfall High School and Ed McCord, William Bolender, Robert Straight and Gale Sawyer of Teays Valley High School.

Goldwater Backs Defense Complex During Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military-industrial complex is a scapegoat for the politically ambitious who sense the nation is tired of Vietnam, Sen. Barry Goldwater told the National War College today.

The Arizona Republican said the nation is undergoing an all-out attack on everything that has to do with the military and defense.

"I think this is largely the work of men who realize the popularity of the whole idea that military costs are unnecessary... that much of the money is going for things that wouldn't work anyway and that we can safely divert any expenditures of this type to other, more pressing needs," he said.

"The military-industrial complex just happened to be here," Goldwater said in his prepared text.

Dear Abby: Should He Know? — Maybe Not!

DEAR ABBY: How dare you advise a woman whose conscience is tormenting her because she cheated on her husband NOT to tell him? If you don't know that the foundation of all good marriages is complete honesty, then you ought to confine your advice to teenagers.

You told that woman to confess to her God—to her clergyman—to a dear friend, but NOT to her husband. HE is the one she should confess to!

I hope you will reconsider and retract your advice to this poor woman. You gave her very bad advice.

ROGER L. DER ROGER: Sorry, but unless a woman is reasonably certain that hers is a mature, forgiving, and understanding man, she'd be better off keeping her bazoo shut.

DEAR ABBY: I'm with you! All "confessions" are NOT good. At age 55 I am still awakened—sometimes at 4 o'clock in the morning—to hear my husband cursing me because of a past intimacy with another man. This took place long before I even MET my husband, but I foolishly "confessed" all, and now he insists that I have sinned against HIM—when I didn't even know him.

I would give anything if I hadn't told him, but I did, and now it's too late.

I would advise women who have husbands like mine to try to tune him out. Don't listen, don't answer, and don't try to apologize or explain. Leave the room. Sleep on the couch if necessary. (I did, last night.) Consider it just another headache.

My husband is fine when he isn't harping on this one subject—which is like a sickness with him—and I comfort myself by reasoning that my love for him is greater than his love for me. I am not going to crack up, and I am not going to leave him. Statistics tell me that I'll be alone soon enough.

SORRY I TALKED DEAR ABBY: To LONESOME AND BLUE" who is bitter toward her husband's company because who is unable to go on business trips with her husband. You are not alone. I have exactly the same situation.

My husband has been a traveling executive for 15 years. We've been married 18 years and have 3 children. I am 39, have kept up my appearance and figure, and keep up on current events. During the time my husband is away I spend as much time with the children as possible since they don't see much of their father. I don't

WASHINGTON (AP) — The military-industrial complex is a scapegoat for the politically ambitious who sense the nation is tired of Vietnam, Sen. Barry Goldwater told the National War College today.

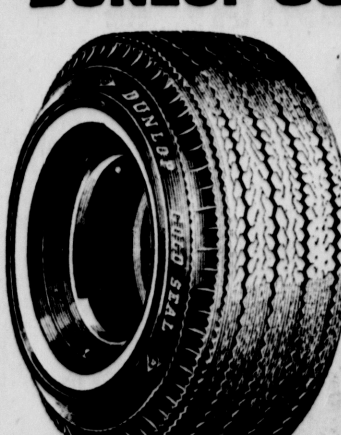

The Arizona Republican said the nation is undergoing an all-out attack on everything that has to do with the military and defense.

"I think this is largely the work of men who realize the popularity of the whole idea that military costs are unnecessary... that much of the money is going for things that wouldn't work anyway and that we can safely divert any expenditures of this type to other, more pressing needs," he said.

"The military-industrial complex just happened to be here," Goldwater said in his prepared text.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the most remarkable live television pictures ever seen appeared on the screens of the nation's viewer Wednesday evening. Three networks interrupted regular programming to show close-up and in color the desolate, pitted surface of the moon.

The television camera inside the Apollo 10 spacecraft shot the rugged surface of the dead planet as it traveled 69 miles above it. It showed, in detail, not only craters and desert-like stretches, but also that there was some color there. The various TV reporters described the color as "tawny" and "brownish-gray," but on this viewer's screen it sometime took on a marked pink tinge mixed with gray, and occasionally there was a greenish white cast. Some of the craters looked to be a blinding white.

It's like old times—almost—for William Shatner. Twice in as many months he has been summoned from Hollywood to New York to play the lead in an original drama.

When television was going through what is fondly remembered as its "Golden Age of Drama," Shatner a young Canadian, was one of its busiest actors, hopping from Studio One to Producers Playhouse to Hall of Fame.

Shatner has since become a television star with a legion of devoted science fiction fans after three seasons of playing Captain Kirk of the spacecraft enterprise in NBC's "Star Trek."

"Star Trek" crashed this season, and Shatner is now busily smashing the heroic image that his role built up.

"I tried to play the account executive in 'Shadow Game'—he was stealing clients from another guy in the same office—as a ruthless, aggressive fellow who had his own point of view," Shatner explained during a rehearsal break of his latest TV effort.

"I guess he still came off as the heavy but I tried to make him human."

Shatner admitted, however, that "I'm glad this one will have some humor—I must say there wasn't much in 'Star Trek' and I like to play comedy."

"This one," is an original by Albert Ruben called "The Skirts of Happy Chance" the fifth and final entry in this season's NBC "On Stage" series. It will be broadcast next Wednesday night. Bill plays a returned war hero who gets mixed up in an antipoverty program and a romance. The girl is Elizabeth Ashley, and they play it partly for laughs.

Shatner's early acting successes were largely with the classics. He graduated from TV's live drama to Broadway starring roles, and is not particularly enchanted with returning to the stage: "I remember how bored I got playing the same thing every night."

He is not anti-TV and would be interested in another series if the right one came along. "But what I'm really interested in now," he added "is feature pictures."

Kennedy Calls Fight For Hill 'Senseless, Irresponsible'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, speaking out in the Senate for the first time against the Nixon administration's Vietnam policy, charged Tuesday that military actions such as the assault on Hamburger Hill are "both senseless and irresponsible."

"American lives are too valuable to be sacrificed for military pride," the Massachusetts Democrat told the Senate.

U.S. forces, frustrated in nine previous days of efforts to take a mountaintop fortress overlooking the A Shau valley finally captured the hill Tuesday on the 10th day of hard fighting.

The U.S. command said 426 North Vietnamese and 39 Americans were killed in the siege and another 273 paratroopers were wounded, including 43 in the final push today.

Kennedy called on President Nixon to withdraw orders given by the Johnson administration to step up pressure against the Viet Cong on the ground in South Vietnam.

Kennedy's speech was promptly challenged by Sen. Hugh Scott, assistant Senate Republican leader, who said "I'm not going to second-guess the President on the conduct of the war."

Unless support is given to such military decisions, Scott said, "we are not serving the cause of peace."

Kennedy asked Scott if he would draw a distinction between battles for hills in wars where the United States sought a military victory and fights such as Hamburger Hill when the President has made clear we seek no such victory.

"It is not for me to judge" the decisions made by U.S. military men, said Scott, who earlier this month called for the start of unilateral U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

"Unless we protect our forces in the field," the Pennsylvania Republican said, "we might as well accept a total defeat and a complete withdrawal."

Ohio Senate OKs Pollution Control Pact With Kentucky

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The first step in the formation of air pollution control commissions for Ohio and surrounding states passed the Ohio Senate Wednesday.

Indiana and West Virginia, he added, may later join the Ohio-Kentucky pact.

"Air pollution is one of the major problems facing us today," Maloney said. "We in this nation are breathing ourselves to death."

The bills now go to Gov. James A. Rhodes for his signature. The compact must be approved by Congress.

The Senate passed 30-2 and sent to the House a bill to require a majority of students and teachers to be present before a school is considered "open for instruction."

Sen. Oakley C. Collins, R-18, Ironton, the bill's sponsor, said it sets guidelines for the Department of Education to follow in determining what school districts are eligible for School Foundation Funds.

Sen. Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, argued the measure could cut off money to schools in large cities that have long student or teacher strikes.

An emergency bill permitting the Ohio Building Authority to erect two buildings instead of one passed 31-1.

The bill was sent to the House. It would allow the authority to build both legislative quarters and a state office building.

Sen. Robert J. Corts, R-13 Elyria, the lone opponent, said he didn't want to give sanction "to the destruction of the historic building housing the Supreme Court."

The Statehouse Annex to which Corts referred would be demolished under present plans. The court and other agencies now occupying it would be housed in the new state office building.

No bills were up for a vote in the House Wednesday during a seven-minute session. Legislators spent the day in committee hearing.

The House Commerce and Labor Committee sent to a subcommittee for redrafting a bill to put the "black lung" disease of miners under Ohio's workmen's compensation law.

Vanik Urges Quicker End To Surtax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, suggested Wednesday at a closed meeting of House Democrats that the income tax surcharge could be ended as early as Sept. 30.

He said this would still give the Nixon administration, by its own figures, a balanced budget.

The proposal came as the House approached a vote on imposing a limit on government spending—part of the price key Democrats want for extending the surtax.

President Nixon has proposed extending the surcharge. Without Congressional action, it will expire July 1.

Vanik cited testimony before the Ways and Means Committee by government officials that Nixon's plan for extending the surtax and associated tax measures would result in a $6.3 billion budget surplus for the year beginning July 1.

He said that ending it Dec. 31 would produce a $4.1 billion surplus and a Sept. 30 termination would leave the budget in balance.

Vanik told newsmen "I think the administration's choice is between a surtax ending Sept. 30 and no surtax at all. I don't find much sentiment for it among Democrats and I don't think the Republicans are solid."

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the most remarkable live television pictures ever seen appeared on the screens of the nation's viewer Wednesday evening. Three networks interrupted regular programming to show close-up and in color the desolate, pitted surface of the moon.

The television camera inside the Apollo 10 spacecraft shot the rugged surface of the dead planet as it traveled 69 miles above it. It showed, in detail, not only craters and desert-like stretches, but also that there was some color there. The various TV reporters described the color as "tawny" and "brownish-gray," but on this viewer's screen it sometime took on a marked pink tinge mixed with gray, and occasionally there was a greenish white cast. Some of the craters looked to be a blinding white.

It's like old times—almost—for William Shatner. Twice in as many months he has been summoned from Hollywood to New York to play the lead in an original drama.

When television was going through what is fondly remembered as its "Golden Age of Drama," Shatner, a young Canadian, was one of its busiest actors, hopping from Studio One to Producers Playhouse to Hall of Fame.

Indiana and West Virginia, he added, may later join the Ohio-Kentucky pact.

Garden Editor Finds Men Are Interested In Flowers

ARDENT AFRICAN VIOLET FANCIER — Harford Renick, Route 3 shows some of the conditions necessary for correct cultivation of foliage plants and African Violets. In his collection are approximately 80 varieties and over 200 in individual plants.

By RUTH MONTELIUS
Garden Editor

I am finding more and more as I investigate the world of flowers and gardening that men have a slight edge over women.

I had thought before that gardening was a woman's world, but this is not at all true. I am finding a great percentage of men who really take flowers and gardening seriously.

I knew this was so in the rose world but it is also the same in other areas. Take Harford Renick, for example. I had heard that he had quite a few violets and decided to interview him. I was amazed at his collection.

Mr. Renick's collection of African Violets is outstanding. He had about 75 in bloom when I was there. I guarantee that if you weren't interested in this beautiful flower before, you

Timely Tips

From May 20 on, tomato plants can be set out.

Certain annuals, such as Portulacas, Phlox, Sweet Alyssum and Nasturtiums are best sown where they are to bloom.

Remember to thin out early sown annuals as well as vegetables that become crowded. Do this in two or three operations rather than pulling the excess out all at one time.

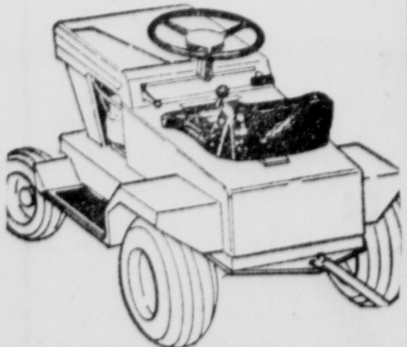

It is far easier to control such diseases as black spot on rose, rust on Hollyhocks and botrytis blight on peonies than afterwards.

Pinch the tips out of Chrysanthemums when the plants are 6 inches high and again when the side branches are about 6 inches long.

Set stakes for pole beans in advance of sowing and for Dahlias before planting.

Sow gourds when danger of frost is past. They will provide material for house decoration next fall and winter.

Mulch trees, shrubs, flowers and vegetables to help retain moisture in the soil and keep down the weeds.

would be after viewing the ones he had.

I UNDERSTAND that until about five years ago, you could count the number of varieties on one hand. Now they number in the thousands. Mr. Renick said that the best plants have been produced by men.

One of the beauties that I saw that appealed to me was a double white one called Singing Surf, which had a green fringe. There were so many lovely plants in white, pink, purple, violet, lavender, blue, fuchsia, and all combinations of colors both double and single, some fringed and some not.

Just about anything you could think of and there it was. Mr. Renick said if you once started, you could not stop with just a few.

Although there were plants all over the house, the basement of this lovely old home seems to be the place where Mr. Renick does most of his work with plants. He had a special propagating case that was used with the fluorescent lights with plastic caps and plastic cover.

All of his plants are grown under these lights. Some of these racks are in three tiers with three bulbs on each tier. The ideal growing temperature is between 62 and 75 degrees. This is one of the reasons that he is so successful with bloom in the summer.

Of course, special growing medium was used. There were bins of leafmold, sand, cow manure and other fertilizers in evidence. One of the little tricks Mr. Renick uses to clean the leaves is an old fashioned shaving brush.

AS A plant enthusiast, Renick is always trying new ways of doing things or experimenting with new ideas. He finds that growing Gloxinias from seed is just as fast as any way. He also finds propagating African Violet from suckers is much the best way, instead of the old way of starting a leaf. He is also keeping the bloom picked off several plants, which are about 15 or 16 inches in diameter now and will soon let them bloom to see if the bloom is any better for their size.

Other foliage plants that were also grown under lights along with the violets were Peperomia, Crosandra, Rex Begonia, Iron Cross Begonia, Baby Tears, Pilea, Hypocyrta Wettsteinia and various succulents. Also there was an Episcia named Cleopatra.

Mr. Renick is active in the American Gesneriad Society and Saint Paulia International Society. He has attended their Show at Kingswood in Mansfield recently.

Besides being interested in houseplants, this gentleman has an outstanding annual garden every year. This is always of a different design and is at its peak in July and August. The Renicks were originally from Virginia so the gardens and buildings are of the Southern style. Mr. Renick carries out this feeling and mood in his formal designs. He makes use of hotbeds and uses plants started this way. There is a portable irrigation system that insures the success of the garden.

All in all my visit at the Renicks' proved very fruitful and educational. I intend to make a return visit this summer to see his flowers outside to see if they can equal the African violets.

Ruth Montelius — Garden Editor — 474-3937

I have had nice comments concerning my column but didn't realize that it was so far reaching. I recently received a letter from Mrs. Helen Gunning in Los Angeles, California. Mrs. Gunning is a former native of Circleville and generally returns to Circleville for the summer. She writes that she was delighted with my article about preserving the trees in Circleville. On her return she is conscious of a spot where a tree had been growing.

She notices fewer and fewer trees on Main St. She feels strongly that when a tree is taken down, another should be planted in its place. She goes on to say on touring the country the towns you admire are the ones with tree-lined streets. Thank you, Mrs. Gunning, for your kind support. This is a subject I feel strongly about, too.

Harry Sabine, 123 Watt St., has set some kind of record again this year. He had two hybrid tea roses in bloom on May 10.

The varieties were Picture and Talisman. He really has a lovely yard and the roses are the healthiest I have seen. The lawn looks like it is manicured. There is a delightful screened outdoor room that completes the picture.

There is to be a Judges and Exhibitors School held by the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs on June 24-25 at the Holiday Inn, Grove City. This is open to all garden club members and anyone interested in learning about roses, lilies, house plants and Japanese flower arranging. Reservations may be made through Mrs. Vance Hendricks, Route 1, Orient, Ohio.

Toads

Nature Notes Of Yesteryear

By the late Leslie L. Pontius
Shakespeare said, "That a toad is ugly and venomous", and many people today think he was right. But he was wrong.

The toad is not ugly. If you will examine one, as you do a flower, and notice the colors and the patterns that are in it: if you will make a friend of it and treat it as you do a canary, you will soon find out that I am right. You do not have to take them in your hands, in fact they rather prefer not being handled, but after they once know you, they will not object and I'll wager that after you have seen their cute manners and funny antics, you will want to take them in your hands.

They are not venomous. They do not have teeth, so of course they cannot bite. They are not poisonous. They do secrete through the pores in their skin a straw colored fluid that has a disagreeable taste. This is their only means of protection against animals that would bite them. When a dog picks up one in his mouth and gets a taste of this fluid, he drops the toad quickly and never picks up another.

The toad is the greatest insect catcher out of doors. He comes to our door steps and catches the flies and mosquitoes that collect there. He sits by the ant hills and licks up the ants. He hides in the grass and catches those big, brown hard-shelled May beetles that come out in the evening. It creeps under the plants in our garden and catches each kind of insect and worm to be found there. He is a great eater and requires four good big meals a day.

The waters from the melting snows and spring rains collect in pools along the roadside, in the fields and woods, and there in early May the toads gather for a big love feast. Here they have their courtships and marriages. Toads seem to think they are great singers and all during this time is one great chorus. The climax of this love feast is the depositing of eggs; after that is done the toads scatter out through the surrounding country where they spend the rest of the spring and summer hunting insects.

The Bolens Orbit-Air It mulches as it mows, as it cleans your lawn

The exclusive design of the blade and housing makes this three-in-one action possible. The "gull wing" blade lifts grass upright, then cuts and recuts until only tiny slivers remain. There's no need to rake or sweep, either, because the fine clippings are forced down into the lawn where they form a moisture retaining mulch that keeps grass greener. The protective housing fully encloses the blade, rides close to the ground and overlaps the blade by four inches front and rear. This design feature helps the cut-recut action of the blade and reduces the possibility of objects being hurled from the mower. Garden Editor Finds Men Are Interested In Flowers

ARDENT AFRICAN VIOLET FANCIER — Harford Renick, Route 3 shows some of the conditions necessary for correct cultivation of foliage plants and African Violets. In his collection are approximately 50 varieties and over 200 in individual plants.

By RUTH MONTELIUS
Garden Editor

I am finding more and more as I investigate the world of flowers and gardening that men have a slight edge over women. I had thought before that gardening was a woman's world, but this is not at all true. I am finding a great percentage of men who really take flowers and gardening seriously. I knew this was so in the rose world but it is also the same in other areas. Take Harford Renick, for example. I had heard that he had quite a few violets and decided to interview him. I was amazed at his collection. Mr. Renick's collection of African Violets is outstanding. He had about 75 in bloom when I was there. I guarantee that if you weren't interested in this beautiful flower before, you would be after viewing the ones he had.

I UNDERSTAND that until about five years ago, you could count the number of varieties on one hand. Now they number in the thousands. Mr. Renick said that the best plants have been produced by men. One of the beauties that I saw that appealed to me was a double white one called Singing Surf, which had a green fringe. There were so many lovely plants in white, pink, purple, violet, lavender, blue, fuchsia, and all combinations of colors both double and single, some fringed and some not. Just about anything you could think of and there it was. Mr. Renick said if you once started, you could not stop with just a few. Although there were plants all over the house, the basement of this lovely old home seems to be the place where Mr. Renick does most of his work with plants. He had a special propagating case that was used with the fluorescent lights with plastic caps and plastic cover. All of his plants are grown under these lights. Some of these racks are in three tiers with three bulbs on each tier. The ideal growing temperature is between 62 and 75 degrees. This is one of the reasons that he is so successful with bloom in the summer. Of course, special growing medium was used. There were bins of leafmold, sand, cow manure and other fertilizers in evidence. One of the little tricks Mr. Renick uses to clean the leaves is an old fashioned shaving brush. AS A plant enthusiast, Renick is always trying new ways of doing things or experimenting with new ideas. He finds that growing Gloxinias from seed is just as fast as any way. He also finds propagating African Violet from suckers is much the best way, instead of the old way of starting a leaf. He is also keeping the bloom picked off several plants, which are about 15 or 16 inches in diameter now and will soon let them bloom to see if the bloom is any better for their size. Other foliage plants that were also grown under lights along with the violets were Peperomia, Crosandra, Rex Begonia, Iron Cross Begonia, Baby Tears, Pilea, Hypocyrta Wettsteinia and various succulents. Also there was an Episcia named Cleopatra. Mr. Renick is active in the American Gesneriad Society and Saint Paulia International Society. He has attended their Show at Kingswood in Mansfield recently. Besides being interested in houseplants, this gentleman has an outstanding annual garden every year. This is always of a different design and is at its peak in July and August. The Renicks were originally from Virginia so the gardens and buildings are of the Southern style. Mr. Renick carries out this feeling and mood in his formal designs. He makes use of hotheds and uses plants started this way. There is a portable irrigation system that insures the success of the garden. All in all my visit at the Renicks' proved very fruitful and educational. I intend to make a return visit this summer to see his flowers outside to see if they can equal the African violets.

Timely Tips

From May 20 on, tomato plants can be set out.

Certain annuals, such as Portulaca, Phlox, Sweet Alyssum and Nasturtiums are best sown where they are to bloom.

Remember to thin out early sown annuals as well as vegetables that become crowded. Do this in two or three operations rather than pulling the excess out all at one time.

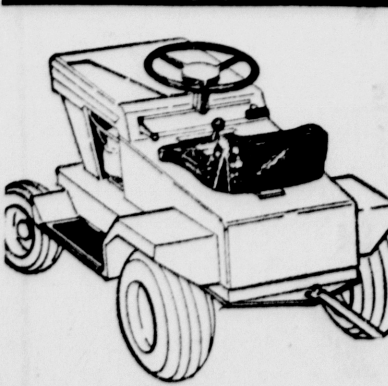

It is far easier to control such diseases as black spot on rose, rust on hollyhocks and botrytis blight on peonies than afterwards.

Pinch the tips out of Chrysanthemums when the plants are 6 inches high and again when the side branches are about 6 inches long.

Set stakes for pole beans in advance of sowing and for Dahlias before planting.

Sow gourds when danger of frost is past. They will provide material for house decoration next fall and winter.

Mulch trees, shrubs, flowers and vegetables to help retain moisture in the soil and keep down the weeds.

I have had nice comments concerning my column but didn't realize that it was so far reaching. I recently received a letter from Mrs. Helen Gunning in Los Angeles, California. Mrs. Gunning is a former native of Circleville and generally returns to Circleville for the summer. She writes that she was delighted with my article about preserving the trees in Circleville. On her return she is conscious of a spot where a tree had been growing.

She notices fewer and fewer trees on Main St. She feels strongly that when a tree is taken down, another should be planted in its place. She goes on to say on touring the country the towns you admire are the ones with tree-lined streets. Thank you, Mrs. Gunning, for your kind support. This is a subject I feel strongly about, too.

Harry Sabine, 123 Watt St., has set some kind of record again this year. He had two hybrid tea roses in bloom on May 10.

The varieties were Picture and Talisman. He really has a lovely yard and the roses are the healthiest I have seen. The lawn looks like it is manicured. There is a delightful screened outdoor room that completes the picture.

There is to be a Judges and Exhibitors School held by the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs on June 24-25 at the Holiday Inn, Grove City. This is open to all garden club members and anyone interested in learning about roses, lilies, house plants and Japanese flower arranging. Reservations

Toads
Nature Notes Of Yesteryear

By the late Leslie L. Pontius Shakespeare said, "That a toad is ugly and venomous", and many people today think he was right. But he was wrong. The toad is not ugly. If you will examine one, as you do a flower, and notice the colors and the patterns that are in it: if you will make a friend of it and treat it as you do a canary, you will soon find out that I am right. You do not have to take them in your hands, in fact they rather prefer not being handled, but after they once know you, they will not object and I'll wager that after you have seen their cute manners and funny antics, you will want to take them in your hands.

They are not venomous. They do not have teeth, so of course they cannot bite. They are not poisonous. They do secrete through the pores in their skin a straw colored fluid that has a disagreeable taste. This is their only means of protection against animals that would bite them. When a dog picks up one in his mouth and gets a taste of this fluid, he drops the toad quickly and never picks up another.

The toad is the greatest insect catcher out of doors. He comes to our door steps and catches the flies and mosquitoes that collect there. He sits by the ant hills and licks up the ants. He hides in the grass and catches those big, brown hard-shelled May beetles that come out in the evening. It creeps under the plants in our garden and catches each kind of insect and the worm to be found there. He is a great eater and requires four good big meals a day.

The waters from the melting snows and spring rains collect in pools along the roadside, in the fields and woods, and there in early May the toads gather for a big love feast. Here they have their courtships and marriages. Toads seem to think they are great singers and all during this time is one great chorus. The climax of this love feast is the depositing of eggs; after that is done the toads scatter out through the surrounding country where they spend the rest of the spring and summer hunting insects.

Panda Love Match Over In Britain

LONDON (AP) — An-An, the rejected Russian panda, flew back to Moscow in style after three years of a love life that never got started. London Zoo officials finally called off the attempt to mate the willing but never insistent male from Moscow with Chi-Chi Britain's frigid female. An-An's cage was put in a special compartment of a British airliner, had a doctor and four stewardesses looking after him. He was fast asleep. Chi-Chi, the always reluctant female, remains at her London Zoo home and no longer will have to share her favorite bamboo shoots with another. The two giant pandas never expressed much feeling for each other, despite two highly publicized love visits across the Iron Curtain. Successive failures to mate them—first in Moscow and then here—mean that giant pandas are likely to become extinct outside Red China and North Korea. Chi-Chi and An-An are the only two in captivity outside those countries.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Accused In Wounding

GENEVA (AP) — Mrs. James Roosevelt, accused of wounding her husband, "was under great stress and convinced that her husband was about to leave her—perhaps the next day—for another woman," her attorney told a Swiss court Wednesday.

The eldest son of Franklin D. Roosevelt was in a Swiss hospital with a knife wound in his back as the court opened a preliminary hearing. Mrs. Roosevelt was in Bel Air Psychiatric Clinic, where she was stabbed after her husband was taken at the Roosevelt's Lake Geneva villa last Thursday.

The court set her bail at 50,000 Swiss francs, the equivalent of $11,500. The bail was posted for her.

Telling of Mrs. Roosevelt's tensions, her lawyer, Dominique Poncet, said she had threatened suicide.

Mrs. Roosevelt has been booked on a holding charge accusing her of wounding her husband.

Following the preliminary hearing, the attorney general now has to decide whether he has a case. This is likely to take several months.

Jean-Pierre Horiaud, president of the three-judge court, said she could be tried on one of three charges—attempted murder, causing grievous bodily harm, or simple assault with a dangerous weapon.

Jean Weber, for the attorney general, opposed bail. He said that despite "the great names of Roosevelt," all people should be judged equally "the rich and the poor, the weak and the powerful."

Poncet told the court that Mrs. Roosevelt, 52, the former Gladys Irene Kitchenmaster, said in a statement to the police that just before stabbing her husband she intended taking her own life and had made out a will that same evening.

Referring to the divorce proceedings begun by Roosevelt, Poncet said Roosevelt had resisted his wife's attempt to mend the marriage through a reconciliation judge—an obligatory first step in Swiss divorce proceedings.

Penny Foundation Brings Hope To The Poor

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
Associated Press Writer

GUATEMALA (AP) — Sam Greene dreams small and that is how he became a 5-foot-6 giant among the little folks of Guatemala's impoverished outback.

Nine years ago, Greene, a retired New York management consultant, thought up a social development scheme that has become a sort of Alliance for Progress for the destitute. It's called the Penny Foundation.

Looking around for something to do, Greene says, he discovered that a penny's worth of hope among the poor was equivalent to a wallet-full of credit cards in a U.S. shipping center.

Working with the poor people's pennies, his foundation has financed cooperatives, schools, water and lighting systems, truck transport, clinics and other rural schemes involving some $200,000.

This isn't much even in Guatemala. But in terms of what it's doing for the little man's dignity, health and outlook, says

Greene, "it's Fort Knox."

This is how the foundation works:

The village of Hermano de San Pedro needed a water system costing $1,500. The village income averaged out at $120 a year per family. In dollar terms the project's cost was staggering. Would they pay for it at a rate of 3 cents a day per family? Greene asked. The answer was a "si," steeped in skepticism. The foundation put up the money. Monthly payments including interest, for the 47 families totaled $47, a dollar per family a month. The village males supplied the manual labor.

Collateral?

"I figure if a man has a shirt on his back he's a credit risk," says Greene. "The best bank in the world is the poor man's two hands."

The villagers paid back the loan so rapidly, says Greene, they qualified for a sharp cut in interest.

Regardless of the size of any project, Greene reduces it to centavo or penny level. He figures this makes it easier for the poor man to translate his own capacity to pay.

"Qualitatively and quantitatively," says Greene, "the poor pay more for everything than the rich. Electricity is cheaper than candles or kerosene lamps. The poor spend an average of 40 per cent of their income on medicine to alleviate intestinal disorders because well and river water is contaminated. Potable water is the answer. It's cheaper."

There have been failures, some $16,000 in unpaid bills.

Far from discouraged, the Penny Foundation, now run entirely by Guatemalans with Greene in largely an advisory capacity, keeps growing and applying fresh ideas. Two of the newest: group insurance to cover village projects and rural medicine.

Pink-faced Sam Greene is in his 77th year. He has been coming here since 1945.

His wife Alice is a writer and at 76, a practicing psychologist. A son, Edwin A., is an IBM executive in Bethesda, Md., and there's a married daughter in Montclair, N.J. He has six grandchildren.

"I had to do something after retiring," he says, "and I found it in seeing how the poor people lived in such quiet desperation. I decided to work at the bottom. More people there."

He also decided: "I'd give them what they wanted, not what I thought they should have. A revolving fund would be created so that money would be used, not spent, and finally, that Guatemalans had to put up the capital."

"I realized this was putting a lot of faith in the little guy," he reflects, "but where else are you going to put it?"

The New Yorker thus went begging to banks and wealthy Guatemalans. "I begged so much some called me a third degree Franciscan monk," says Greene, a Jew.

The foundation now has lines of credit in several banks.

"They're getting the message," says Greene, "they're beginning to realize this is their own best insurance."

What does Greene get out of all this?

"Just my expenses and they're not much," he says. "But it means a whole lot of spiritual satisfaction. I've also never had so much fun in my life."

AN AMERICAN FAD seems to have taken hold in France with the presidential campaign underway.

School Strike Still Slated In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor

Richard J. Daley conferred with school and union officials Wednesday in an effort to avert a strike by public school teachers set for 6 a. m. Thursday.

John E. Desmond, president of the Chicago Teachers Union, told newsmen: "There is no chance of calling off the strike tomorrow. We'd have to have 24 to 48 hours to get back to the membership."

He explained that if there is a quick settlement there would have to be a referendum among members of the union.

James F. Redmond, schools superintendent, announced Tuesday, that the city's 550 schools will be closed to the 23,000 pupils Thursday and Friday in the event of a strike and he would decide over the weekend which schools could be opened Monday if a strike continues.

Among union demands are guaranteed job protection, a $150-a-month raise in September and a limitation on class sizes.

The board is confronted with an estimated $54-million deficit for the last half of this year—unless the Illinois Legislature comes up with additional money.

Teacher salaries now vary. Starting teachers with bachelor degrees receive $7,350 a year and those with masters' degrees get $7,700.

U.S. Command Calls Fight For Hill 'Fine Operation'

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command said Wednesday that the 10-day battle for 3,000-foot Dong Ap Bia appeared to be "a real fine operation from our point of view."

"We are not fighting for terrain as such," said a spokesman for Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. "We are going after the enemy. Relative casualties is one way to measure it." They're working on cleaning out the enemy.

U.S. spokesmen said the number of North Vietnamese troops killed had risen to 454 as American paratroopers from the 101st Airborne Division continued to find bodies in the ruins of bunkers on the mountain overlooking the A Shau Valley.

U.S. casualties also were revised upward, to 46 killed and 308 wounded.

The kill ratio was nearly 10 North Vietnamese to one American, while the ratio in all operations covered by the last two weekly casualty reports has been 7 or 8 enemy killed to one allied soldier.

Except for occasional sniper fire, no action was reported Tuesday night on the mountain near the Laotian border.

Asked if the paratroopers would stay on the mountain, the spokesman replied: "That's a future operational thing and we can't discuss it. But our troops are still up there. They're cleaning bunkers out and searching."

After 10 assaults were beaten back, about 1,500 U.S. paratroopers and South Vietnamese infantrymen took the mountain top Tuesday and sent the remaining North Vietnamese fleeing across the Laotian border.

U.S. artillery and aircraft had pounded the enemy positions constantly, but the North Vietnamese were entrenched in deep bunkers.

"It was a great victory for a gutsy bunch of guys," said Gen. Zais. "Real victories don't come easy."

The U.S. Command reported 27 enemy rocket and mortar attacks at various points Tuesday night but said only 10 of them caused casualties or damage.

South Vietnamese headquarters said four civilians were killed and eight wounded when 12 rockets slammed into a populated area 30 miles south of Da Nang.

U.S. headquarters also announced the loss of the 2,651st helicopter lost in the war, an Army UH1 shot down in Tay Ninh province northwest of Saigon. The crew was rescued uninjured.

The South Vietnamese government reported Wednesday that 2,123 "Communist soldiers, political agents and their supporters" came over to the government side in the two weeks of May 4-17. During the same two-week period last year, the spokesmen said, only 346 enemy "rallied" to the Saigon government.

Woman Slain, Husband Suicide Near Lancaster

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Elizabeth Griffen, 48, was shot to death Wednesday and her husband, Dale, 52, killed himself on the porch of their home four miles south of here as Fairfield County sheriff's deputies arrived at the scene.

Deputies reported the couple's daughter, Doris, as saying she saw her father pump nine bullets into her mother's body with a rifle inside the house and then walk out to the porch.

The daughter called the sheriff's office. She said her parents had an argument after Griffen returned home from work.

No official ruling on the death was made immediately by the coroner.

Kennedy Raps Mississippi Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has charged the Pentagon with awarding a $113.6 million contract for assault ships to a Mississippi firm he says has not complied with Nixon administration equal employment rules. Kennedy, the No. 2 Senate

Democrat, says the contract for nine amphibious ships was awarded to the Ingalls Shipbuilding Co., even though the firm previously was found not to have met federal regulations requiring that Negroes be hired on the same basis as whites. The Maritime Commission, which made the original finding of noncompliance, still has not received an acceptable plan for following the rules Kennedy said.

He said he had written Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird about the situation after he found the Ingalls contract had been awarded in the past two weeks. Laird did not reply, the Massachusetts senator said.

This is the second time since the Nixon administration took office that the Defense Department has drawn major criticism for awarding contracts to Southern firms.

Some members of Congress and civil rights leaders spoke out in early February when $9.4 million in defense contract went to three Southern textile companies which had not fully complied with equal employment regulations.

Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard said at the time that the firms were making progress toward equal employment and had assured the government they would take further affirmative action. Last month the Pentagon announced agreements with the three firms to monitor the hiring and promotion of Negroes in the textile plants.

In questioning the shipbuilding contract, Kennedy wrote to Laird: "On its face the present Ingalls award again suggests agency action inconsistent with the letter and spirit of the contract compliance order and regulations."

"I had thought the statements of the various executive branch officials at our hearings, especially that of the secretary of labor, indicated that the executive order would be fully implemented in the future. Therefore I would appreciate your informing me of the circumstances which led to the award of this major contract to a company that is apparently in non-compliance with the executive order."

According to a source on the subcommittee, the contract with Ingalls was signed without anyone having made a compliance check.

The Maritime Administration's contract compliance office and the Office of Federal Contract Compliance said they did not know of the contract until after it had been awarded.

Claim Army Kept Silent On Contaminated Utah Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — House investigators have obtained military maps showing a biologically contaminated area in Utah near a gas warfare proving ground where the Army has said there is no contamination. The maps raised the question of Army truthfulness, according to Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the subcommittee investigating the use of biochemical warfare agents such as nerve gas.

Army witnesses were called to appear today before Reuss' subcommittee to explain the maps and two other incidents in which Army spokesmen reportedly were not straightforward about what is going on at Dugway Proving Grounds in Utah.

The Army and Air Force maps, exhibited to the subcommittee Tuesday, showed a "Permanent Bio Contaminated Area" nine miles in diameter located about 15 miles outside Dugway Proving Grounds.

Reuss said he is concerned about the maps since Army officials had denied there was a contaminated area in Dugway. Some 6,000 sheep died last year near the proving ground. Military officials did not concede that chemical biological warfare testing had killed the sheep, but the government paid compensation to owners of the animals.

Republican Rep. Sherman P. Lloyd, whose district includes Dugway, testified he is convinced the Army did not lie about the maps, since the area is outside—not in—Dugway. "Don't you think honorable men would have to say: 'No we don't have one within the proving grounds but we do have one outside'" asked Reuss.

At daybreak this morning temperatures were close to normal, ranging from 45 at Youngstown to 57 at Cincinnati. The showers are expected to end late Friday or Friday night followed by partly cloudy weather on Saturday with temperatures a little on the cool side.

FORECASTS — OHIO — Considerable cloudiness and little change in temperature with occasional showers likely tonight. Lows in the upper 40s and 50s. Friday cloudy and cool with scattered showers.

NORTHWEST NORTHEAST OHIO — Cloudy and cool tonight with a few showers likely. Lows in the upper 40s and lower 50s. Friday cloudy with a chance of showers and little change in temperatures. High 55-65. Outlook: Showers ending Friday night. Saturday outlook: Becoming partly cloudy and cool.

SOUTHWEST, SOUTHEAST, CENTRAL, EAST CENTRAL OHIO — Considerable cloudiness and little change in temperatures with scattered showers tonight and Friday. High: Friday from the middle 60s to 70s. Lows tonight mostly in the 50s. Outlook Saturday partly cloudy and cooler.

Firefighter Encounters Mad Monkey

CINCINNATI (AP) — Firemen Bill Shook went about his inspection tour in routine fashion Wednesday—until he met a monkey named Charlie who promptly bit him.

Shook said it started out as a friendly encounter. He knocked on the second-apartment door of Mrs. Frank Hagins, started to make his inspection of apartment wiring and saw the squirrel monkey leashed in the living room.

"That's Charlie," said Mrs. Hagins. Charlie responded by running up to Shook, grabbing his right hand. He bit into the fireman's forefinger.

After emergency treatment at a local hospital for the nasty incision Shook laughed about the meeting. "I just misjudged the length of the leash."

The Health Department confined Charlie to the apartment for 10 days to observe him.

"FOLLOW CHARLIE" — Porter's Car Wash Inc., 1185 North Court Street announces the recent installation of a "Follow Charlie" brush system in their automatic car wash. In addition to the regular high pressure spray, these soft, deep-pile, nylon brushes thoroughly clean the front, back and sides of the car. Also a large mitting curtain passes over the car, scrubbing the hood, top and back. Each car follows the successive "Charlie" lights through the car wash. For an additional quarter a complete spray wax is available. This new system will do a more thorough job especially on tires and rocker panels than the original spray alone.

Kennedy Raps Mississippi Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has charged the Pentagon with awarding a $113.6 million contract for assault ships to a Mississippi firm he says has not complied with Nixon administration equal employment rules. Kennedy, the No. 2 Senate Democrat, says the contract for nine amphibious ships was awarded to the Ingalls Shipbuilding Co., even though the firm previously was found not to have met federal regulations requiring that Negroes be hired on the same basis as whites. The Maritime Commission, which made the original finding of noncompliance, still has not received an acceptable plan for following the rules Kennedy said. He said he had written Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird about the situation after he found the Ingalls contract had been awarded in the past two weeks. Laird did not reply, the Massachusetts senator said. This is the second time since the Nixon administration took office that the Defense Department has drawn major criticism for awarding contracts to Southern firms. Some members of Congress and civil rights leaders spoke out in early February when $9.4 million in defense contract went to three Southern textile companies which had not fully complied with equal employment regulations. Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard said at the time that the firms were making progress toward equal employment and had assured the government they would take further affirmative action. Last month the Pentagon announced agreements with the three firms to monitor the hiring and

Birth Control Pill Dangers Studied By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — An advisory committee of the Food and Drug Administration is meeting behind closed doors this week to sift anew mounting evidence birth control pills can harm and even kill.

It already has issued two widely publicized reports on oral contraception and the current meeting is aimed toward a third that likely will be tougher than anything it has said so far.

"I think there is a growing awareness of the multiple effects on women," said one committee member who asked not to be quoted by name.

"If I was in private practice," he said, "I would prescribe the pill for certain women. But the key words are certain women."

Although the member declined to say how many on the committee share his views—if any—he said, "There is no conflict."

The new report is not expected until sometime this fall at the earliest, but the committee's meetings here today and Friday come on the heels of two significant events.

The National Institute of Health earlier this month said clinical trials showed that a common birth control pill component caused breast cancer in dogs and should be considered a risk for women.

Bearing the NIH stamp, the report by Dr. Roy Hertz was the most authoritative link between breast cancer and the pill to date. Hertz warned however his data was preliminary and required much more study.

While this added new weight to rising criticism of the pill, another development followed on May 14—announcement that an effective and perhaps safer minipill had been developed.

Dr. Somers A. Sturgis of the Harvard medical school told an international symposium that a lower strength hormone pill had been found effective in tests on some 4,700 women. He said the new pill was more effective than an intrauterine device—RUD—which got high marks from the FDA Advisory Committee in its second major report in January 1968.

Birth control pills were first provided for general use in 1961 and gained new users steadily until 1964 when 1.7 million women began using it.

The total of new users has fallen off steadily since to about half a million last year when a total of 7 million were estimated to have taken it at one time or another.

Although researchers had reported increasing concern that the pill might be linked to blood clots, cervical cancer and metabolic changes, the most dramatic indictment came last April when British doctors reported a definite link between the pill and fatal clotting in the lungs and veins.

Within days the FDA moved to order lighter advertising and labeling, and by July 1 labels warning of the possibility of blood clots were law.

Nuclear Weapons Factory Fire Loss Seen $50 Million

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Damage from a fire May 11 at a nuclear weapons factory here may total $50 million, the Atomic Energy Commission said Tuesday.

The fire, of still undetermined origin, broke out in what the AEC termed a production building at its Rocky Flat Plant, operated near Golden by Dow Chemical Co.

AEC officials speculated at the time that radioactive plutonium housed in the building may have started the fire with the heat it generates spontaneously.

One fireman received exposure to radioactivity above prescribed levels. He was treated and returned to duty. There were no injuries, and radioactive contamination was limited to the area of the building, all within the plant site.

An AEC spokesman said preliminary estimates indicate it will cost $40 million to $50 million to restore and replace damaged facilities.

The fire was confined to the two-story building where the blaze broke out, but an adjoining building suffered water and smoke damage.

The preliminary estimate includes costs of decontamination, replacing equipment and repairing the buildings. It does not include the cost of reprocessing a still undetermined quantity of plutonium involved in the fire.

The AEC said some damaged sections will be restored within a month, but more seriously damaged areas will take a year or more to repair.

The AEC will not say what kind of nuclear weapons are manufactured at the plant.

Apollo 10 Launch Part Of Busy Week At Cape

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A commercial communications satellite was poised to rocket towards a lofty station orbit over the Pacific today—the second of four launches scheduled this week at the busy spaceport.

Friday, a single Air Force Titan 3 rocket is to hurl five satellites into separate orbits, including two nuclear detection watchdog craft aimed at helping police the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

Saturday, a Navy Poseidon missile is to rocket from a land pad for a sixth test flight of the weapon being developed to succeed Polaris missiles aboard America's nuclear submarine fleet. That will end a busy week at the spaceport, which began Sunday with the liftoff of Apollo 10.

Perched atop a three-stage Delta rocket, the commercial communications satellite—owned by the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium (INTELSAT)—was to blaze away from Cape Kennedy today at 10 p.m. EDT, followed by the Titan 3 Friday at 3:57 a.m.

Storms Rake U.S. Midsection

Hail, High Winds Pound Kansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thunderstorms boomed across the nation's midsection today and triggered heavy rains, hail and strong winds from the southern Plains to the Midwest.

Light rain chilled the region north of the storm belt and added to the discomfort of unseasonably cold temperatures that settled to the low 40s or lower before dawn.

Two hailstorms, with almost no break in between, pounded the Hutchinson area of central Kansas during the night and caused extensive damage to homes, automobiles and other property. There were reports of total losses to wheat crops in parts of southern Reno County.

Police said the Wednesday night storms were much worse than a hailstorm three weeks ago which caused an estimated $2 million in damage in the Hutchinson area.

Wind gusts of 50 and 60 miles an hour frequently accompanied thunderstorms which ranged along a stationary front from the Texas Panhandle to the Great Lakes. Damaging outbursts of hail occurred as far west as Texas and east into Missouri.

Downpours of more than an inch of rain were common in the predawn hours from southeastern Kansas into eastern Missouri. Twelve-hour rainfalls of up to 2 inches produced a threat of local flooding in some areas.

Temperatures dipped into the 40s or lower from the Dakotas to interior New England. The mercury settled to a frosty 33 at Montpelier, Vt., and Lebanon, N.H.

Generally mild weather prevailed through the South Southwest and most of the Far West.

Senate Confirms Carl Johnson As PUCO Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate brushed lobbyist opposition aside Wednesday and voted 29-0 to reappoint Carl Johnson as chairman of the state's Public Utilities Commission.

Johnson's confirmation had been languishing in the Senate Rules Committee for more than three months because utility lobbyists complained he investigated rate cases too deeply and was slow in assigning cases for hearing.

Johnson was nominated by Gov. James A. Rhodes Feb. 4 along with five others who were confirmed the same day.

Johnson's term expires Jan. 31 1975.

He said the new pill was more effective than an intrauterine device—IUD—which got high marks from the FDA Advisory Committee in its second major report in January 1968.

Birth control pills was first provided for general use in 1961 and gained new users steadily until 1964 when 1.7 million women began using it.

The total of new users has fallen off steadily since to about half a million last year when a total of 7 million were estimated to have taken it at one time or another.

Although researchers had reported increasing concern that the pill might be linked to blood clots, cervical cancer and metabolic changes, the most dramatic indictment came last April when British doctors reported a definite link between the pill and fatal clotting in the lungs and veins.

Within days the FDA moved to order tighter advertising and labeling, and by July 1 labels warning of the possibility of blood clots were law.

Nuclear Weapons Factory Fire Loss Seen $50 Million

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Damage from a fire May 11 at a nuclear weapons factory here may total $50 million, the Atomic Energy Commission said Tuesday.

The fire, of still undetermined origin, broke out in what the AEC termed a production building at its Rocky Flat Plant, operated near Golden by Dow Chemical Co.

AEC officials speculated at the time that radioactive plutonium housed in the building may have started the fire with the heat it generates spontaneously.

One fireman received exposure to radioactivity above prescribed levels. He was treated and returned to duty. There were no injuries, and radioactive contamination was limited to the area of the building, all within the plant site.

An AEC spokesman said preliminary estimates indicate it will cost $40 million to $50 million to restore and replace damaged facilities.

The fire was confined to the two-story building where the blaze broke out, but an adjoining building suffered water and smoke damage.

The preliminary estimate includes costs of decontamination, replacing equipment and repairing the buildings. It does not include the cost of reprocessing a still undetermined quantity of plutonium involved in the fire.

The AEC said some damaged sections will be restored within a month, but more seriously damaged areas will take a year or more to repair.

The AEC will not say what kind of nuclear weapons are manufactured at the plant.

Apollo 10 Launch Part Of Busy Week At Cape

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A commercial communications satellite was poised to rocket towards a lofty stationary orbit over the Pacific today — the second of four launches scheduled this week at the busy spaceport.

Friday, a single Air Force Titan 3 rocket is to hurl five satellites into separate orbits, including two nuclear detection watchdog craft aimed at helping police the partial nuclear test ban treaty.

Saturday, a Navy Poseidon missile is to rocket from a land pad for a sixth test flight of the weapon being developed to succeed Polaris missiles aboard America's nuclear submarine fleet. That will end a busy week at the spaceport, which began Sunday with the liftoff of Apollo 10.

Perched atop a three-stage Delta rocket, the commercial communications satellite—owned by the International Telecommunications Satellite Consortium (INTELSAT)—was to blaze away from Cape Kennedy today at 10 p.m. EDT, followed by the Titan 3 Friday at 3:57 a.m.

Storms Rake U.S. Midsection

Hail, High Winds Pound Kansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thunderstorms boomed across the nation's midsection today and triggered heavy rains, hail and strong winds from the southern Plains to the Midwest.

Light rain chilled the region north of the storm belt and added to the discomfort of unseasonably cold temperatures that settled to the low 40s or lower before dawn.

Two hailstorms, with almost no break in between, pounded the Hutchinson area of central Kansas during the night and caused extensive damage to homes, automobiles and other property. There were reports of total losses to wheat crops in parts of southern Reno County.

Police said the Wednesday night storms were much worse than a hailstorm three weeks ago which caused an estimated $2 million in damage in the Hutchinson area.

Wind gusts of 50 and 60 miles an hour frequently accompanied thunderstorms which ranged along a stationary front from the Texas Panhandle to the Great Lakes. Damaging outbursts of hail occurred as far west as Texas and east into Missouri.

Downpours of more than an inch of rain were common in the predawn hours from southeastern Kansas into eastern Missouri. Twelve-hour rainfalls of up to 2 inches produced a threat of local flooding in some areas.

Temperatures dipped into the 40s or lower from the Dakotas to interior New England. The mercury settled to a frosty 33 at Montpelier, Vt., and Lebanon, N.H.

Generally mild weather prevailed through the South Southwest and most of the Far West.

Senate Confirms Carl Johnson As PUCO Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Senate brushed lobbyist opposition aside Wednesday and voted 29-0 to reappoint Carl Johnson as chairman of the state's Public Utilities Commission.

Johnson's confirmation had been languishing in the Senate Rules Committee for more than three months because utility lobbyists complained he investigated rate cases too deeply and was slow in assigning cases for hearing.

Johnson was nominated by Gov. James A. Rhodes Feb. 4 along with five others who were confirmed the same day.

Johnson's term expires Jan. 31 1975.

Apollo 10 Families Happy
With Moon Orbit Success

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — From 225,000 miles away the word came down: "We have arrived." The silence was broken. And three Apollo 10 wives cheered and sighed with relief.

"It was," said Faye Stafford, "a pretty nice sound."

"The longest hour in my life," said Barbara Cernan.

Barbara Young just cheered.

Those were the wifely responses Wednesday after the Apollo 10 space ship had swept behind the moon and re-established radio contact with earth.

"You can tell the world," Apollo 10 commander Thomas P. Stafford announced from space, "we have arrived."

"It was terrific to hear their voices," Mrs. Cernan said.

A rousing cheer, led by Mrs. Young, rang through the neighborhood. She clasped her hands above her head.

Moments earlier, the three wives, nervous and quiet, watched home television sets and awaited word from space after a communications blackout of more than half an hour.

An observer with Mrs. Young said, "I have never seen her that intense before."

"Is everything all right?" Mrs. Stafford asked a NASA official. She was assured it was.

"That was a long minute and a half," she sighed.

She referred to the time between acquisition of telemetry signals from the spacecraft and the renewal of voice contact with words spoken by her husband.

Mrs. Frank Borman, who experienced the same sensation when her husband took the Apollo 8 ship to a moon orbit in December, rushed across the street to the Young home and hugged Mrs. Young.

"Where have you been?" Mrs. Young asked happily.

"Wringing my hands," Sue Borman replied.

Stafford and Cernan will fly their fragile lunar lander module to within 9.3 miles of the moon's surface Thursday—a space first.

"It's just another step of many to come," said Mrs. Stafford. With daughters Karin, 11, and Dionne, 14, she watched the first live color telecast of the moon Wednesday night in the mission control center.

Dowagiac Mich. Residents
Fight To Save Brick Street

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Writer

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (AP) — "Save Main Street" bumper stickers are sprouting up in this southwestern Michigan city of 7,600. A rosy red brick road, some 30 tall and stately maple trees and nearly 70 years of tradition are at stake.

The State Highway Department wants to improve Dowagiac's main street, part of State Highway 40, but this would mean ripping out the red bricks originally laid down in 1904 and cutting down or moving 43 trees and a center strip planted with flowers.

Some of the oldest and most historic homes in this community also are in danger of losing portions of their front yards.

People who live in the area say they are determined the Highway Department won't swallow the red brick road in the name of progress.

"The leaders of the campaign are the people who live in the area—conservative neighborhood," reports Lee Maager, a staff writer for the Dowagiac Daily News.

"They have the support of local garden clubs and people from other sections of the town. They also are selling bumper stickers—"Save Main Street," Maager said.

"They are raising money to hire an attorney and are talking about asking for an injunction to halt the construction project," he added.

There's another side of the story, of course. Some people say the town's main street must be widened in the name of progress. They also point out that the bricks, laid on a loose sand base, are crumbling to bits. They say the old-fashioned red bricks may be colorful but are not practical on a section of main highway.

As for the stately trees, and the median strip planted with flowers, City Clerk Albert First says, "The maples are mostly going bad and a lot of them would have to be cut down eventually."

And First says the Highway Department promised the median strip—with its flowers and shrubs—also will be saved for the most part. Some sections

Masotti Resigns

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Case Western Reserve University has announced that Dr. Louis H. Masotti has resigned as head of its Civil Violence Research Center.

Dr. Masotti, senior author of the unreleased Masotti report on last July's disturbances in the city's Glenville area, submitted the resignation letter last week without giving any reason for the move the university said Wednesday.

Last week Masotti found himself under attack by Black Nationalists and white supporters of Fred "Ahmed" Evans for not making public his report during Evans' first-degree murder trial. The trial ended May 12 with Evans getting the electric chair for the deaths of four persons during the Glenville affair.

would have to be removed but First says additional sections would be built.

A mistake by the Highway Department has won a temporary reprieve for the red brick road. Bids were to be taken on the widening project, estimated to cost $300,000. But by some oversight, the department forgot to put bid specifications for sub-contractors into the main contract for the work.

The error made the project unacceptable to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and sealed bids had to be handed back to the contractors. The project now is set for bidding June 4, which gives the Dowagiac Citizens Committee for the Preservation of Main Street a little more time to save the red brick road.

"Is everything all right?" Mrs. Stafford asked a NASA official. She was assured it was.

"That was a long minute and a half," she sighed. She referred to the time between acquisition of telemetry signals from the spacecraft and the renewal of voice contact with words spoken by her husband.

Mrs. Frank Borman, who experienced the same sensation when her husband took the Apollo 8 ship to a moon orbit in December, rushed across the street to the Young home and hugged Mrs. Young.

"Where have you been?" Mrs. Young asked happily.

"Wringing my hands," Sue Borman replied.

Stafford and Cernan will fly their fragile lunar lander module to within 9.3 miles of the moon's surface Thursday—a space first.

"It's just another step of many to come," said Mrs. Stafford. With daughters Karin, 11, and Dionne, 14, she watched the first live color telecast of the moon Wednesday night in the mission control center.

Dowagiac Mich. Residents Fight To Save Brick Street

By BOB VOGES
Associated Press Writer

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (AP) — "Save Main Street" bumper stickers are sprouting up in this southwestern Michigan city of 7,600. A rosy red brick road, some 30 tall and stately maple trees and nearly 70 years of tradition are at stake.

The State Highway Department wants to improve Dowagiac's main street, part of State Highway 40, but this would mean ripping out the red bricks originally laid down in 1904 and cutting down or moving 43 trees and a center strip planted with flowers.

Some of the oldest and most historic homes in this community also are in danger of losing portions of their front yards.

People who live in the area say they are determined the Highway Department won't swallow the red brick road in the name of progress.

"The leaders of the campaign are the people who live in the area—conservative neighborhood," reports Lee Maager a staff writer for the Dowagiac Daily News.

"They have the support of local garden clubs and people from other sections of the town. They also are selling bumper stickers—'Save Main Street,' Maager said.

"They are raising money to hire an attorney and are talking about asking for an injunction to halt the construction project," he added.

There's another side of the story, of course. Some people say the town's main street must be widened in the name of progress. They also point out that the bricks, laid on a loose sand base, are crumbling to bits. They say the old-fashioned red bricks may be colorful but are not practical on a section of main highway.

As for the stately trees, and the median strip planted with flowers, City Clerk Albert First says, "The maples are mostly going bad and a lot of them would have to be cut down eventually."

And First says the Highway Department promised the median strip—with its flowers and shrubs—also will be saved for the most part. Some sections might have to be removed but First says additional sections would be built.

A mistake by the Highway Department has won a temporary reprieve for the red brick road. Bids were to be taken on the widening project, estimated to cost $300,000. But by some oversight, the department forgot to put bid specifications for subcontractors into the main contract for the work.

The error made the project unacceptable to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads and sealed bids had to be handed back to the contractors. The project now is set for bidding June 4, which gives the Dowagiac Citizens Committee for the Preservation of Main Street a little more time to save the red brick road.

Reds Pull Out 6-5 Victory
With Walk By Phillie Pitcher

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Dave Bristol of the Cincinnati Reds sized Wednesday night's game with Philadelphia in a humorous, but truthful fashion: "We gave it to them and they gave the game back to us."

The Reds won by a 6-5 count. What Bristol meant was the Phillies had pulled ahead in the ninth on reliever Clay Carroll's wild pitch—but Philadelphia reliever Jerry Johnson walked in the winning run in the bottom of the inning.

Larry Hise opened Philadelphia's ninth with a single, moved to second on a sacrifice, to third on a fielder's choice and scooted home on Carroll's errant pitch. Philadelphia went ahead 5-4. Clay was booed as he walked off the mound when he retired the side.

The Reds came up and Tony Perez singled, with Chico Ruiz doing the running. Ruiz reached second after Lee May's grounder was fumbled—and tied the game on Johnny Bench's single. Then reliever Johnson got into deep water—although the picture was deceiving at first. He intentionally walked Tommy Helms, loading the bases, to get to Darrel Chaney. Instead pinch hitter Ted Savage came to the plate. And Johnson issued the game-winning walk. Johnson, 2-4, pitched 2 1/3 innings of relief behind Bill Wilson and starter Woody Fryman. Carroll, who evened his record at 3-3, found his familiar smile afterward in the dressing room. He came in at the start of the ninth. "Well, the thing was to win"—already forgetting the unfavorable crowd reaction. Reds' starter Jim Merritt,

Officials
Hang Whistles

Two well-known and popular Pickaway County basketball officials are hanging up their whistles. They are Jack McGuire and Bill Ankrom.

McGuire began officiating 22 years ago. He was given his first game by Judson Lanman, who is now executive head of the Westfall School District.

The game was in the old Sulphur Springs Pavilion at Williamsport, where Williamsport High School played their home games.

McGuire is a 1940 graduate of Mt. Sterling High School. When he first started there were ten schools in the county.

AT THAT time it was easy to fill a season's schedule and never travel more than 20 miles to a game.

Today, with consolidation, officials have to be prepared to travel many miles if they hope to fill their season's schedule.

Ankrom graduated from Monroe High School in 1947, where he was an All-Pickaway County player. He began officiating 18 years ago.

List also was the low net winner with a 31. The Duffers were the winning team yesterday with 17 points. Members of the Duffers are Eddie Combs, Mark Leatherwood, Jerry Pritchard, Leonard Campbell.

After two weeks the Par Busters lead the league with 32 points. Members of the Par-busters are Gail Leatherwood, Jack Hutchison, Jim Dawson, Dick Robbins. Tied for second with 28 points are the Hookers, the 4-Patters and the Duffers.

TEE times will be honored in the league next Wednesday Hutchison said today.

A scotch twosome is scheduled at Upper Lansdowne Saturday. Golfers interested in playing in the event should contact Hutchison.

The Detroit Tigers made 15 fewer errors than any other team in the American League in 1968.

Seavers Leads New York Mets 5-0 Over Braves

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Tom Seaver has been a good pitcher ever since he came to the New York Mets two years ago, but now he's getting lucky, too and when a pitcher is good and lucky... well, that's just great.

Victory No. 4 came when the Mets scored eight runs in the eighth inning after Seaver left for a pinch hitter in the inning—"the first time I can recall winning a game with the Mets after I was out."

Seaver, whose fast ball and sharp control led him to a 16-13 Rookie of the Year record in 1967 followed by a 16-12 mark last year for the light-hitting Mets, hasn't lost since April 25, and his only two defeats were by 3-1 scores to Bob Gibson and Ferguson Jenkins.

But Wednesday night, there was no stopping him as he retired 12 consecutive hitters over one stretch and breezed in with virtually no trouble boosting the Mets to .500 for the first time this late in a season.

Cleon Jones, the leading hitter in the major leagues, singled in two first inning runs off Phil Niekro 6-3, and Bud Harrelson wrapped it up with a three-run triple in the eighth.

Orioles, Royals, Yankees Win

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
It was a monotonous night in the American League with more reruns than summertime television.

Everytime Billy Martin looked up, Minnesota had men on the bases and Baltimore had someone on the way in from the bullpen to make sure they stayed there.

Everytime Al Dark looked up, the ball kept sailing out of the park and a Kansas City Royal was trotting out a homer.

And everytime Hank Bauer looked up, Horace Clarke was running through his hair and around the bases for the New York Yankees.

Relievers Dave Leonhard and Pete Richert pitched out of jams and Minnesota left 11 runners stranded in a 4-3 loss to Baltimore Wednesday night.

Three KC homers backed Roger Nelson's seven-hit pitching and the Royals trimmed Cleveland 4-0. Clarke rapped four singles and stole three bases in New York's 6-5 11-inning triumph over Oakland.

In other AL games, Boston swept a doubleheader from California 5-2 and 8-3 and Seattle whipped Washington 6-2. Detroit at Chicago was rained out.

Frank Robinson tagged three hits and the Orioles moved to 4-2 lead against Minnesota's Dave Boswell. Then the Twins nipped Tom Phoebus, 5-0, for a run in the sixth and loaded the bases.

But reliever Leonhard got Tony Oliva to bounce into a force play at the plate and struck out Harmon Killebrew to end the threat.

In the eighth, Leonhard was knocked out by a walk and a single. Richert relieved, struck out Ted Uhlaender and got Cesar Tovar to rap into a rally-killing double play.

Minnesota left the bases loaded in the second and sixth innings as well. "That's the way we've been losing them," said Manager Martin. "Loading the bases and not scoring or getting a guy to third with less than two out and not being able to get even a sacrifice fly."

Jerry Adair and Chuck Harrison ripped bases-empty homers and Bob Oliver exploded a two-run shot to account for all of Kansas City's runs against Dark's Indians.

Adair connected in the first inning and Nelson made the run stand up until Harrison's shot in the seventh and Oliver's in the ninth gave him some extra breathing room.

Clarke scored three runs including the winner in the 11th for the Yankees. Bill Robinson opened the final inning with his second triple but was thrown out at the plate on Clarke's bouncer.

Then Horace stole second—his third theft of the game—and raced across on Jerry Kenney's looping single.

Tiger '9'
Loses To Miami Trace

The Circleville High School baseball team, the lone spring sports team still active, was defeated by Miami Trace, 16-4, Wednesday on the Tiger diamond.

The visitors scored four runs in the first inning, one in the second, exploded for seven in the third, added two in the fourth, one in the sixth and one in the seventh.

It was the seventh win in nine league starts for Trace. The Panthers are battling Wilmington and Washington C. H. for the league lead.

The Tigers finished the league schedule yesterday with a 1-9 record. Overall, they have won four games and lost 11.

BILLY Thomas started for Circleville on the mound. Bothered with a sore arm, he was relieved in the first inning by Tommy Bowers.

Bowers pitched until the fourth inning when he was lifted in favor of Randy Dresbach. Thomas walked four and was touched for four hits.

Bowers gave up eight hits, walked two and fanned one. Dresbach fanned five and walked three.

Nine Circleville errors played a role in the loss. Only six of Miami Trace's runs were earned.

Tonight Circleville travels to Lancaster and Friday the Tigers close the season by hosting Teays Valley.

Maple Leafs Get Forward Ron Ward

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League announced Wednesday they have acquired defenseman-forward Ron Ward, 24, from the Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League for Brad Selwood and Rene Robert.

Ward played three seasons for Tulsa of the Central League before being acquired by the Canucks and sent to Rochester of the American League, where he played as a forward most of last season.

Ailing Jim Lonborg, making his first appearance in almost a month, pitched five innings and earned the victory in Boston's first-game triumph over California. Joe Azcue and Mike Andrews had three hits apiece and Rico Petrocelli homered for the Red Sox.

In the nightcap, Boston jumped into an 8-0 lead in the first four innings and tagged the Angels with their sixth straight defeat. Tony Conigliaro drove in two of the runs with a big triple, breaking a string of 18 straight at bats in which he had failed to

Foyt Sets Top Qualifying Lap As Andretti Loses Car

By DALE BURGESS

Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A. J. Foyt Jr. of Houston was king of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway again today and a favorite to post an unprecedented fourth victory in the 500-mile race May 30.

His No. 1 opponent, Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., lost his car in a fiery crash Wednesday, immediately after Foyt had set an unofficial record for the 2 1/4-mile asphalt track.

Andretti wasn't hurt seriously.

Foyt turned a lap at 172.315 miles an hour in a Coyote-Ford of his own design. The official one-lap record, set in qualifications last year by Joe Leonard in a Lotus-Pratt & Whitney turbine car, is 171.953.

Andretti, who had been fastest in Speedway practice this year at 171.789, charged onto the track immediately after Foyt went to the garage.

Andretti didn't complete a lap before losing his right rear wheel on the northwest turn, spinning 320 feet and hitting the wall. He leaped out of the car as it burst into flame and escaped with a burn on the upper lip.

Another Lotus-Ford was being groomed for Andretti today.

Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., a teammate of Andretti on the 11-car STP team, locked his brakes to miss the Andretti car and spun 280 feet but missed the burning racer.

Young Turks After Atlanta Open Golf Win

ATLANTA (AP) — The young Turks, who have stolen the thunder from the old pros on the golf tour, are winning because they aren't under much financial pressure says veteran Tommy Bolt.

The colorful 51-year-old golfer — once known as Terrible Tommy because of his temper — was in the star-studded field that started after the $115,000 jackpot in the Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament today.

"These kids are good golfers," Bolt conceded in an interview. "I'm not saying they're not."

"But I'm saying that it is easier for them because somebody else is footing the bill."

"A lot of the guys — like myself — are paying our own way on the tour, and have been for a long time."

"Now that's pressure. It's something these kids don't really understand or know," Bolt added.

"I'm glad they have the advantages they have today, but I'll tell you it's much, much easier to go out there and shoot a round of golf when you're not worried about too many things."

There may be questions about Bolt's theories, but there is no doubt that the youngsters have made a splendid showing on the tour this year.

Bunky Henry, Tommy Shaw, Larry Hinson and Jim Colbert were among the so called unknowns who teed off with a 1969 victory already under their belt.

The old pros were out in force on the 7,058-yard, par 72 Atlanta Country Club layout too.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Dan Sikes, Gardner Dickinson, Doug Sanders, Masters champion George Archer and talkative Lee Trevino were among the early favorites for the tour regulars.

Defending champion Bob Lunn, who hasn't won since he took the 1968 Atlanta Classic title, also was in the field along with New Zealander Bob Charles, winner when the tournament was started in 1967.

Drag Racing Shows Tremendous Growth

NEW YORK (AP) — In the "wonderful world of drag racing," says debonair Wally Parks "there's room for everybody. Even Detroit's big automakers."

Parks is the founder and president of the National Hot Rod Association.

Drag racing, Parks says, draws more participants with their own machinery than any other facet of the sport. "Our aim has been to take the kids off the streets and give them an outlet for their hot-rodding," he says. "I think we've been largely successful."

Last year the NHRA sanctioned 2,550 drag meets that drew 4,648,338 paid spectators, 439,564 entries. It supervised 2,197,820 timed runs and 3,296,730 miles of racing. Prize money ran into the millions.

"Drag racing is a combination of many things," Parks says. "It's the hobbyist, it's recreation, it's big business, science, challenge and crusade. It represents people, doing things they like to do."

Drag racing started out in the 1930s as hot-rodding. It flourished following World War II when mechanically minded kids began matching Model A frames with 1932 Ford roadster bodies, then sticking in a V-8 engine, adding oversized rear wheels, a generous application of chrome and clean, bright paint. They also kept the neighbors awake at night.

"The idea then was for one youngster to drag another between stoplights or on a dark country road," says Parks. "Things have changed. Some of the kids still do this, but now most of them can compete where they have supervision."

Hot-rodding has come so far in recent years, has become such a part of the lives of many young people, that the big automakers—Chevrolet, for example—are turning out legitimate hot rods or drag cars of their own.

The Chevelle SS 396 is an example. Or the Dodge Charger, packed with a "street hemi" engine only slightly less powerful than those used in Chrysler's stock racing cars. Or the Plymouth Road Runner, or the American Motors AMX and Javelin, the Pontiac GTO, the Chevy Camaro, or Ford "Boss Mustang" or Mustang Mach 1.

Detroit has also moved into the drag world with money, engineering know-how and sophistication.

Ford will maintain two complete drag racing teams and subsidize others on the U.S. circuits this year. Dodge has "Big Daddy" Don Garlits, 35 drag racing's all-time king and the only man ever to win three national championships. Garlits holds the top speed mark for a dragster, 225.26 miles per hour from a standing start, quarter-mile run. His mount was a fuel-injected, hemi-powered dragster "rail."

American Motors will field a team of "Travelin' Javelins" this year. General Motors products, including Chevys, Pon-tacs and Oldsmobiles, are already among the sport's biggest winners.

The primary aim in drag racing is to see which vehicle, as evenly matched as possible within specific categories, can bolt down a 1,320-foot asphalt straightaway from a standing start in the lowest elapsed time.

As in some other major sports, drag meets are conducted tournament-style, with a series of two-car elimination matches. The loser in each race is eliminated. The winner progresses into the next round against another opponent, until only the winner remains. He is the category's "top eliminator."

Parks says these tournament-style eliminations make it possible for drag racing to accommodate literally hundreds of entries at each meet.

The NHRA will have seven official eliminator categories this year, ranging all the way downward from 1,500 horsepower "rails"—two big rear wheels, a driver's cage, a mammoth engine of unlimited size, and two long chassis rails extending forward to connect with two small bicycle-type wheels in front. These "rails" can be either "gassers" or "fuelers," the former burning regular pump gasoline, the latter an exotic mixture of methanol alcohol and nitromethane.

There are "super stock," "stock," "street roadsters," and "altered" classes. Both sanctioning groups have added categories for "AA and A-Funny cars"—super light, high horsepower replicas of late model stock cars, capable of speeds up to 200 mph in the quarter of a mile.

In sanctioned meets there are handicaps for cars within all but two of the categories. The top fuel and top gas eliminators—the unlimited power dragsters—use the "heads up" or even starts.

The five other categories utilize an electronic handicap system which affords cars with slower elapsed times a "head start" over ones with quicker elapsed time.

There are at least a dozen new drag strips under construction in the U.S., many ranging in costs up to $1 million. Some will be affiliated with the younger AHRA, which no longer considers itself No. 2 in the drag world.

Foyt Sets Top Qualifying Lap As Andretti Loses Car

By DALE BURGESS

Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A. J. Foyt Jr. of Houston was king of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway again today and a favorite to post an unprecedented fourth victory in the 500-mile race May 30.

His No. 1 opponent, Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., lost his car in a fiery crash Wednesday, immediately after Foyt had set an unofficial record for the 2 1/2-mile asphalt track.

Andretti wasn't hurt seriously.

Foyt turned a lap at 172.315 miles an hour in a Coyote-Ford of his own design. The official one-lap record, set in qualifications last year by Joe Leonard in a Lotus-Pratt & Whitney turbine car, is 171.953.

Andretti, who had been fastest in Speedway practice this year at 171.789, charged onto the track immediately after Foyt went to the garage.

Andretti didn't complete a lap before losing his right rear wheel on the northwest turn, spinning 320 feet and hitting the wall. He leaped out of the car as it burst into flame and escaped with a burn on the upper lip.

Another Lotus-Ford was being groomed for Andretti today. Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., a teammate of Andretti on the 11-car STP team, locked his brakes to miss the Andretti car and spun 280 feet but missed the burning racer.

Young Turks After Atlanta Open Golf Win

ATLANTA (AP) — The young Turks, who have stolen the thunder from the old pros on the golf tour, are winning because they aren't under much financial pressure says veteran Tommy Bolt.

The colorful 51-year-old golfer — once known as Terrible Tommy because of his temper — was in the star-studded field that started after the $115,000 jackpot in the Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament today.

"These kids are good golfers," Bolt conceded in an interview. "I'm not saying they're not."

"But I'm saying that it is easier for them because somebody else is footing the bill."

"A lot of the guys — like myself — are paying our own way on the tour, and have been for a long time."

"Now that's pressure. It's something these kids don't really understand or know," Bolt added.

"I'm glad they have the advantages they have today, but I'll tell you it's much, much easier to go out there and shoot a round of golf when you're not worried about too many things."

There may be questions about Bolt's theories, but there is no doubt that the youngsters have made a splendid showing on the tour this year.

Bunky Henry, Tommy Shaw, Larry Hinson and Jim Colbert were among the so called unknowns who teed off with a 1969 victory already under their belt.

The old pros were out in force on the 7,058-yard, par 72 Atlanta Country Club layout too.

Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Dan Sikes, Gardner Dickinson, Doug Sanders, Masters champion George Archer and talkative Lee Trevino were among the early favorites for the tour regulars.

Defending champion Bob Lunn, who hasn't won since he took the 1968 Atlanta Classic title, also was in the field along with New Zealander Bob Charles, winner when the tournament was started in 1967.

Drag Racing Shows Tremendous Growth

NEW YORK (AP) — In the "wonderful world of drag racing," says debonair Wally Parks "there's room for everybody. Even Detroit's big auto-makers."

Parks is the founder and president of the National Hot Rod Association.

Drag racing, Parks says, draws more participants with their own machinery than any other facet of the sport. "Our aim has been to take the kids off the streets and give them an outlet for their hot-rodding," he says. "I think we've been largely successful."

Last year the NHRA sanctioned 2,550 drag meets that drew 4,648,338 paid spectators, 439,564 entries. It supervised 2,197,820 timed runs and 3,296,730 miles of racing. Prize money ran into the millions.

"Drag racing is a combination of many things," Parks says. "It's for the hobbyist. It's recreation. It's big business, science, challenge and crusade. It represents people, doing things they like to do."

Drag racing started out in the 1930s as hot-rodding. It flourished following World War II when mechanically minded kids began matching Model A frames with 1932 Ford roadster bodies, then sticking in a V-8 engine, adding oversized rear wheels, a generous application of chrome and clean, bright paint. They also kept the neighbors awake at night.

The idea then was for one youngster to drag another between stoplights on a dark country road," says Parks. "Things have changed. Some of the kids still do this, but now most of them can compete where they have supervision."

Hot-rodding has come so far in recent years, has become such a part of the lives of many young people, that the big auto-makers — Chevrolet, for example — are turning out legitimate hot rods or drag cars of their own.

The Chevrolet SS 396 is an example. Or the Dodge Charger, packed with a "street hemi" engine only slightly less powerful than those used in Chrysler's stock racing cars. Or the Plymouth Road Runner, or the American Motors AMX and Javelin, the Pontiac GTO, the Chevy Camaro, or Ford "Boss Mustang" or Mustang Mach 1.

Detroit has also moved into the drag world with money, engineering know-how and sophistication.

Ford will maintain two complete drag racing teams and subsidize others on the U.S. circuits this year. Dodge has "Big Daddy" Don Garlits, 35 drag racing's all-time king and the only man ever to win three national championships. Garlits holds the top speed mark for a dragster, 225.26 miles per hour from a standing start, quarter-mile run. His mount was a fuel-injected, hemi-powered dragster "rail."

American Motors will field a team of "Travelin' Javelins" this year. General Motors products, including Chevys, Pontiacs and Oldsmobiles, are already among the sport's biggest winners.

The primary aim in drag racing is to see which vehicle, as evenly matched as possible within specific categories, can bolt down a 1,320-foot asphalt straightaway from a standing start in the lowest elapsed time.

As in some other major sports, drag meets are conducted tournament-style, with a series of two-car elimination matches. The loser in each race is eliminated. The winner progresses into the next round against another opponent, until only the winner remains. He is the category's "top eliminator."

Parks says these tournament-style eliminations make it possible for drag racing to accommodate literally hundreds of entries at each meet.

The NHRA will have seven official eliminator categories this year, ranging all the way downward from 1,500 horsepower "rails" — two big rear wheels, a driver's cage, a mammoth engine of unlimited size, and two long chassis rails extending forward to connect with two small

two of the categories. The top fuel and top gas eliminators — the unlimited power dragsters — use the "heads up" or even starts.

ELDRIDGE HAAS

Haas has been plant superintendent of Circleville district since October, 1967. At Portsmouth, he will manage plant operations in Scioto, Pike and Lawrence counties and plant offices in Chesapeake, Portsmouth and Waverly.

McKee moves up from a staff assistant post with the company's general plant department in Marion. A retired Army lieutenant colonel, McKee started with the company in 1958. He held jobs in engineering and plant departments before his promotion to Circleville.

The new plant official served 14 months as vice president and general manager of Nassau Bay Telephone Co. in Texas. He returned to General of Ohio last August.

In his new job, McKee will manage plant operations of district exchanges of Circleville, Amanda, Ashville, Baltimore, Laurelville, Millersport, Pleasantville and Williamsport. The exchanges serve about 17,000 phones in Pickaway, Fairfield, Hocking, Licking, Ross and Vinton counties.

McKee holds membership in the Institute of Electronic and Electrical Engineers, Independent Telephone Pioneer's Association, Reserve Officers Association and Retired Officers Association. He is a board member of Community United Methodist Church in Marion. He resides at 1055 Marseille Drive, but will move to Circleville.

JOHN A. MCKEE

Haas, a native of Cincinnati, started with General in 1958. Before coming to Circleville, he was a staff assistant in general plant department at Marion. He is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati.

Florida-Based Firm Is Probed Under Ohio Law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Koscot Interplanetary, Inc., a Florida-based firm, is under investigation by the Ohio attorney general's division of consumer frauds and crime.

Atty. Gen. Paul Brown said representatives of the cosmetic company are operating in eastern Ohio.

Brown said "the company operates a lottery in its methods of selling distributorships." He said Florida has sought a temporary restraining order against Koscot because of its methods.

Brown says Koscot uses "pyramid, or multilevel merchandising, which offers greater returns to its investors by finding other investors than from actual product sales."

Abduction Story Said Fabrication

NEWCOMERSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Newcomerstown Police Chief John Lawver says the story one of his patrolmen told of being abducted Wednesday was a "complete fabrication."

The patrolman, 26-year-old Charles Hayes, said an armed man abducted him as he was investigating a car parked in a vacant lot and forced him to drive his cruiser some 15 miles out of town. Hayes said he was struck twice by the man who transferred to another car and fled.

Lawver did not say what action, if any, would be taken against Hayes, who has been on the force for six months.
